Polaris Missile Spotted by Gemini 7

Astronauts Drifting and Dreaming

SPACE CENTRE, Houston (UPI)—The Gemini 7 astronauts were drifting and dreaming in space Monday night at the end of a busy day that included the sighting of a submarine-launched Polaris missile.

James Lovell was flying through the night in his underwear.

And Lt.-Col. Frank Borman, the Gemini 7 command pilot, had his 16-pound flight suit unzipped to keep cool. He reported that he and co-pilot Lovell had been warm "since we've been up here" on their two-week endurance voyage.

Before settling down for more sleep on their third night aloft, the pilots did some exercise with a stretch cord, ate and rigged their ship for "hands-off" flying.

Earlier, project officials announced there was a 50-50 chance that Gemini 6 might be launched one day early—on Dec. 12—in its effort to overtake Gemini 7 and fly close formation with it. Work was well ahead of schedule at Cape Kennedy on the craft of Gemini 6 pilots Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford.

A decision was to be made on Tuesday as to whether the rendezvous attempt so important to Project Apollo which will land men on the moon could be moved up a day.

Lovell reported a minor accident as he and Borman were preparing to have their evening meal.

"I also had another catastrophe. As I was reaching back for one of my food bags,

I snagged my head on the overhead and tore off all my EGG (electroencephalogram) leads. We're in the process of pasting them back on now."

The sensors are used to measure brain activity during both work and sleep periods. For one thing, they tell how deeply the pilots are sleeping.

Gemini 7 soared into its 34th orbit at 8:50 p.m. EST.

At that point, the astronauts were exercising and eating and getting settled down for another nice long sleep.

During the 34th orbit, Lovell gave ground control a report on food and water intake and sleep. At that point each had slept 12 hours since the take-off on Friday. Borman had

Luna VIII Crashes On Moon

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today that its unmanned spaceship Luna VIII failed to make a soft landing on the moon.

Announcing the landing, the Soviet news agency Tass said the soft-landing system worked normally at all stages but the last.

Had it been successful, the feat would have put Russia well ahead of the United States in the race to put a man on the moon.

FURTHER STEP
In its English-language service, the Soviet news agency said the probe "reached the surface of the moon."

As a result of the probe Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing, the agency added.

Luna VIII was launched Friday.

The Jodrell Bank Observatory in England heard the signals from the space ship two seconds after it landed.

NEAR 'OCEAN'
Tass said the probe landed on the southern "shore" of the waterless Ocean of Storms.

Today's announcement said that as a result of the probe, Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing.

Children Thrive On Own

VANCOUVER (CP)—A devoted family of four children which disappeared from Montreal in August is living happily here and has no desire to go home. (See Page 11.)

They made this clear Monday after authorities informed them that their parents knew where they were.

UNDER SUPERVISION
The children, Maria Balent, 17, her brother Andre, 13, and sisters Milica, 14, and Draga, 9, are living in a West End apartment under the supervision of the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

They disappeared from their home Aug. 30 and, in a manner they refuse to disclose, travelled to Vancouver.

"They promised us we wouldn't have to go back," the children said repeatedly to a reporter.

FEARED DEAD
Meanwhile, their anguished mother, Mrs. Vinko Balent, said in a telephone interview from Montreal she thought her children were dead.

The children have established a home here that revolves around Maria, a blonde girl with a serious face that shows the responsibility she has accepted.

She works as a nurse's aid and sometimes as a cleaning woman.

ATTEND SCHOOL
The other children attend school and two of them have paper routes.

The reporter who interviewed them said: "They seem wiser than their years, and they are wary and protective of each other. But they are particularly well-mannered, polite youngsters, careful not to be rude to strangers."

Hospitals Too

Bennett Eyes More Aid For Scholars

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett will fly to Ottawa this week to ask for more money for universities and hospitals and to ask that mental health be brought under the federal-provincial hospital care agreement.

He said Monday he would leave for Ottawa Wednesday to attend the second annual meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers. He will be accompanied by deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

EARLY DECISION
The talks are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

The premier said he would especially ask for an immediate decision on federal government participation in the cost of higher education, because universities will soon have to be preparing their budgets for next year.

BLADEN REPORT
He said he would ask for implementation of the recommendations made in the Bladen Commission report on higher education.

The Bladen report recommended that the present per capita grants be raised to $5 for the year 1965-66 and be increased by $1 each year thereafter until an appropriate revision can be made, in consultation with the provinces.

CAPITAL GRANTS
It also recommended establishment of a capital grants fund into which annual payments would be made of $5 per head of the Canadian population and which would amount to about $100,000,000 a year.

Mr. Bennett said he would ask for "a more realistic approach" by Ottawa toward capital costs for hospitals.

The provincial government now pays about half of hospital capital costs while the federal government share is sometimes as low as 10 per cent, he said.

"And I will ask for the federal government to carry out its previous commitment to bring mental health under the hospital care agreement," the premier said.

Holy Office Faces Big Changes

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul Monday ordered an unprecedented reorganization of the Holy Office—once the Inquisition—and the Vatican Ecumenical Council ended three years of work by approving a church policy statement on modern problems.

The Roman Catholic prelates gave a decisive vote of acceptance to the Schema (draft document) on modern problems, which includes condemnation of nuclear warfare and a proposal for further studies on contraception. (See Page 6.)

Pope Paul, consulted by telephone, told council presiding officers he approved the document although an unusually large number of prelates—including many Americans—voted against its blanket denunciation of nuclear weapons.

DOCUMENT APPROVED
A vote of 2,111 to 251 approved the document as a whole. In a separate vote on the nuclear warfare section, the vote was 1,710 to 483. No other major council document has drawn so much opposition in a decisive vote.

With the council virtually concluded, Pope Paul issued two major pontifical documents.

African Terms Rejected

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson Monday rejected African terms for breaking white-ruled Rhodesia's rebellion and thus risked a mass walkout of the Commonwealth's 16 non-white countries.

The British leader did so convinced that Britain's preferred program of economic sanctions already has rendered Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's breakaway regime bankrupt. Wilson also was balked by the fact Commonwealth countries, who break with London stand to lose their trading preferences.

FRIDAY WARNING
The Organization of African Unity warned Friday its 36 members would break off diplomatic relations with London if Britain did not crush Smith's white-minority government by Dec. 15.

"The responsibility is ours," Wilson told The Daily Mirror, "and whatever the cost we shall not be pressured into starting a war which we believe to be wrong."

PINCERS HURT
There were signs, meanwhile, Britain's economic pincers were beginning to hurt. Rhodesia defaulted Monday on its interest payments of a four-per-cent loan stock. London stock dealers reacted quickly, lowering prices on Rhodesian bonds by about $14. Smith himself has said Rhodesia will no longer be able to honor international loans.

WARNING MADE
In Salisbury, Finance Minister J. J. Wrathall warned Rhodesians they can expect more increased and more unemployment as a result of the British sanctions.

Wilson held out an offer to Rhodesia's white minority of a negotiated settlement "without fear, without surrender, without recrimination."

The OAU threats are taken seriously, though calmly, by Wilson.

OTHER WARNINGS
They have been reinforced by warnings of such countries as Uganda, Tanzania and others that they may quit the Commonwealth unless the British act as demanded. Nine OAU members also are Commonwealth members.

If the African countries were to fulfil their threats then Asian members of the Commonwealth very likely would do so too, in the British view.

'Jilted' de Gaulle Remains Mum On Runoff Ballot

PARIS (CP)—President de Gaulle remained at his country estate in Colombey-les-Deux-Églises Monday, keeping a typical silence about his plans after Sunday's rebuff in the French presidential election.

If he does not withdraw his name from competition or resign from the presidency, he will have to defeat left-wing candidate Francois Mitterand in a second ballot Dec. 19 to decide the presidency.

De Gaulle has until midnight Thursday night to pull out of the second ballot. There seems little possibility that he would withdraw, Gaullist sources said.

NEVER RECOVER
The moderate daily Le Figaro said Monday a withdrawal "would not only be wrong on the tactical level but would deal a blow from which they would never recover."

If he runs again, de Gaulle could be expected to harvest many of the votes which went to Senator Jean Lecanuet and the other non-left candidates in the first ballot. His victory was being regarded as assured.

Instead of the "frank and massive support" he had sought for another seven-year term as president, de Gaulle was rejected by a majority of the voters Sunday in favor of one of

Rubber Plantation Site of New Battle

SAIGON (AP)—New fighting was reported today between troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the Viet Cong near the Michelin Rubber Plantation, 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The fighting was an apparent resumption of the weekend battle that U.S. officials said killed 231 Communists.

U.S. officials said in the weekend battle the 1st Division infantrymen suffered moderate casualties but some individual units were hit hard.

U.S. spokesmen said 231 Communists had been confirmed killed. Some American officers said they counted 50 enemy bodies in the dense jungle terrain where it often is difficult to see a man two yards away.

On the central coast, a U.S. marine amphibious operation north of Qui Nhon ended Monday with 26 Viet Cong confirmed killed five captured and 12 suspects held, spokesmen said. Marine casualties were termed light.

'Rhodesia at War For Very Survival'

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesia is at war and fighting for its survival, Finance Minister John Wrathall said Monday night.

In a speech broadcast over Rhodesian television, he said: "Despite our outward calm, we are at war."

The finance minister said the state of war had been clear since Prime Minister Ian Smith and his white-minority government seized independence from Britain Nov. 11.

FIGHT CONFIRMED
"The latest British measures announced during the last few days have merely served to confirm that we are fighting for our very survival," he said.

Wrathall said Rhodesians could defend themselves in the economic and political battle by maintaining confidence in Rhodesia's future.

FURY CITED
He warned them not to underestimate the fury of British Prime Minister Wilson's attack. "He has pinned his faith on a savage onslaught aimed at sapping our courage and our will to win," he said.

Ten More Days Left To Aid Most Needy

Morry, Denise, Danny, Philip and Steven donated $10; the Mystics Car Club gave $25 and an anonymous donor $50, to boost The Daily Colonist 500 Fund to its new total of $4,431.68.

If today were the last day of the drive, each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy

The days remaining are fewer than the days before Christmas because the fund

Surprising Setback

He Still Stands Tall Among Rivals

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

French voters deflated the image of President de Gaulle but he continues to stand tall among his rivals on the French political scene.

De Gaulle had expected—so confidently he hardly campaigned at all—to be returned to office by a substantial majority for a second seven-year term in Sunday's presidential election. But as things turned out, he had to settle for less than 45 per cent of the total vote.

The surprising setback brought smiles to opponents of his policy of seeking to establish France as a force independent of the United States and the Soviet Union.

The French president lost favor among his European allies as well as the United States for pursuing an independent foreign policy which ran against their policies as members of the North Atlantic Alliance and the European Economic Community.

Opponents of de Gaulle appeared happy that the president was lowered by the voters from his lofty pedestal and placed on the political plane of mortals.

As de Gaulle was being cut to size, a new figure emerged in Francois Mitterand, the only candidate of the left and a man

Common 'Teen Athletic Disease Can Hit Oldsters as Well

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 30 and the mother of three. I have had trouble with my right knee for about five years, but it never bothered me enough to see a doctor until recently.

The doctor X-rayed it and said I had Osgood-Schlatter's disease, and that it is common among teenage athletes.

He suggested a cast to give the knee complete rest for three to eight weeks, but I was afraid to have to cast my knee for my children. Then he suggested a knee brace, which I am now using. Do you think the disease could affect other bones in my leg?—Mrs. J.S.H.

True, Osgood-Schlatter's disease is usually seen in younger folks, and is thought to be the result of injury. Treat-

Dear Dr. Moizer: I am 70 and recently developed a mild arthritic condition. There seems to be some thought that drinking soft water (I installed a softener system in my home 18 months ago) has a tendency to develop this ailment. What's your opinion?—H.F.W.

There is no evidence that soft (or softened) water has anything to do with arthritis. At 70, most of us can expect that the years will have made our joints somewhat creaky.

Pearson's Holiday Confuses Guessers

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson's choice of the balm Caribbean for his cabinet reconstruction decisions is taking the spice out of the post-election Ottawa's pastime of guessing in advance what form the ministry will take.

In the prime minister's absence political figures whose position usually gives them at least some clues aren't speaking with any authority. They say all they can do is speculate on the pattern they thought was shaping up before Mr. Pearson left Nov. 26.

Three certain cabinet vacancies form the starting point for the prime minister's task and for speculation here.

SOME SURE

Agriculture Minister Hays and Mines Minister MacNaught were beaten in the Nov. 8 election. Walter Gordon's resignation as finance minister was announced Nov. 11.

There are rumors of more vacancies through resignation or through assignment to other duties. Most prominently mentioned in this connection are State Secretary Lamontagne and Postmaster-General Tremblay. One political source said Mr. Lamontagne is "almost certain" to resign.

MAYBE DIPLOMAT

One rumor is that Mr. Lamontagne may be named to a diplomatic post, another that both men will leave the cabinet and continue sitting as private members. It is known Mr. Tremblay's health hasn't been good.

Before leaving Ottawa, Mr. Pearson said the cabinet changes might be extensive. One source suggests this may mean a redistribution of the duties coming under each portfolio to spread the administrative work load.

SHARP SHIFT

The consensus appears to be that only a handful of ministers seem certain of remaining in their present posts. They include Paul Martin in external affairs, Paul Hellyer in defence and J. W. Pickersgill in transport. There also is a feeling, but less positive, that Allan MacEachen will stay in labor.

No one doubts George McIlraith will continue as Liberal House leader. But there is less certainty he will retain his post as minister of public works.

It is taken for granted Mitchell Sharp will shift from trade and commerce into the finance portfolio vacated by Mr. Gordon.

Railway 'Near Normal'

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway said Monday night operations were near normal despite the absence of 112 trainmen.

The railway said passenger service is curtailed but freight service, which makes up 90 per cent of the business of the railway, was close to normal with supervisory personnel doing the work of trainmen.

The railway said each trainman will have to justify his absence when he returns to work after booking "sick" Friday night or Saturday.

If a man could give an adequate excuse he would be permitted to return to work. But those with poor excuses would be suspended and possibly dismissed.

DENIED REPORTS

The railway denied reports made earlier Monday that the trainmen had already been suspended. A spokesman said an employee booking off sick cannot be suspended until he reports back for work.

Most of the trainmen are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

General manager J. S. Broadbent said in a statement the railway has not been advised of any grievance by the union. He said there was nothing from the union about the dismissal of a man at Prince George, said by some trainmen to be the cause of the sudden "sickness."

STAYED AWAY

It is reported the men stayed away from work without approval from the union. They are reported to have been complaining that their grievances have not been properly processed for months; that the PGE makes interpretations of its contract with the union that results in costly grievance procedures.

The men are also reported to feel newly-laid track is not properly inspected before it is used and they protest they have received no instruction on how to deal with emergencies concerning dangerous cargoes such as chemicals.

The PGE extends from this Vancouver-area municipality to Port St. John in the north. Passenger cars now are running only between here and Clinton, 100 miles to the north, and return.

MINISTERS AWAY

Top government officials in Victoria had no comment Monday on the labor dispute which is hampering operations of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to north-central British Columbia.

Premier Bennett, buttonholed by reporters as he entered a cabinet meeting, said: "No, I can't say anything about that." Meanwhile, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, in his dual capacity as education minister, was out of town all day for the opening of three new schools in the Kamloops school district.

North Viet Hit By Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada said Monday Communist North Viet Nam has committed "gross violations" of the 1962 Geneva agreement guaranteeing the neutrality of Laos.

External Affairs Minister Martin said in a statement that a report of the international truce supervisory commission in Laos establishes that regular units of the armed forces of North Viet Nam, which signed the 1962 accord, entered Laos in 1964 with arms and munitions and fought Laotian troops on Laotian soil.

QUESTIONS FUTURE

A spokesman for the external affairs department said North Viet Nam's violations brings into question the whole future and feasibility of international agreements.

He said North Viet Nam had signed the Geneva agreement with 13 other countries—including Canada—in July, 1962, and by February, 1964, was sending troops into Laos in violation of the agreement.

Canada, India and Poland comprise the truce supervisory commission in Laos. Communist Poland declined to participate in the commission's investigation but did not file a minority report.

Crime 'National Conspiracy'

DETROIT (AP)—Illinois Attorney General William G. Clark told a conference of American attorneys - general Monday "there can be no question that organized crime is a national conspiracy operating interstate from coast to coast."

"It (the conspiracy) has its own international connections for the supply of a tide of narcotics... moving every day toward the United States from Italy, France, the Middle East, through Canada, Mexico and the Latin American countries."

Clark made the comment at a combined meeting of the Midwestern Regional Conference of Attorneys-General and the executive committee of the National Association of Attorneys-General.

"The top crime bosses skim the cream off the profits and leave a balance to the local czars whom they have named in each community to head the rackets," Clark said.

Clark said the national "take" from organized crime has been estimated to be as much as $45,000,000 a year, the most lucrative fields being gambling, organized vice and narcotics.

NDP Qualifies Grit Support

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party decided Monday to support the minority Liberal government on worthwhile legislation but said it would not back away from any early election.

Party Leader T.C. Douglas, said following the first post-election caucus. "We think this Parliament should get down to business and it can only do this if it is given a chance to present its program."

PENSION BOOST

The legislation mentioned by Mr. Douglas includes: An increase to $100 in monthly old-age pension payments; introduction of medical care insurance; more federal aid to education; and establishment of the Canada Development Corp.

Fifteen of the party's 21 attended the caucus. Five British Columbia members did not make the trip.

No definite decisions will be made until the party holds another caucus the week prior to the opening of Parliament Jan. 18.

WARNS OF ATTACK

One member said the party can be expected to attack moves toward more economic ties with the United States. The party's argument would be any move toward economic union would be followed by a political association.

Mr. Douglas said Monday that the party couldn't decide on its attitude toward any Conservative non-confidence motions until it examines the wording.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker says his party will propose such motions.

AWAIT SPEECH

"We can only make the final decisions when we see the speech from the throne," said Mr. Douglas. "If it holds out hope that the government is going to do some of the things it ought to do... we think this Parliament should get down to business."

A weekend meeting of the federal executive gave Mr. Douglas a vote of confidence for the way he fought the election.

Loffmark's Squabble

TRADE MINISTER RALPH LOFFMARK has involved himself in a bitter argument with the leaders of the B.C. pulp and paper industry by disagreeing with them that the current expansion of the industry in this province is going to lead to a serious world overproduction of pulp in the next five or more years.

The pulp men say that with six new mills building, six more in the planning stage and six more in the contemplative stage, over-supply is certain.

Mr. Loffmark says the world demand for pulp is growing so fast that over-supply is not a threat. "Don't believe them," Mr. Loffmark is reported to have said in a recent talk given in Vancouver.

Forest Minister Ray Williston, another member of the B.C. cabinet directly involved in the pulp industry, supports Mr. Loffmark to the extent that he feels any possible surplus in the next few years can be readily handled by the industry itself.

While the onlooker may be surprised at the intensity of the current feud, it is not to be thought that such rancor has not been developing for a considerable time.

The forest industry has been secretly bitter at being pushed along by the B.C. government into a faster forest development than it feels prudent, but it has had little option but to go along.

The government has played no favorites. It has indicated that certain licences are on offer to anyone willing to develop them according to a government formula. Companies which hitherto have had no connection with the B.C. forest industry have accepted the invitation, and those with existing B.C. forest commitments have been forced to enter the bidding or lose for ever the source of material essential to their eventual development.

Time alone will tell whether government or industry knows best, but meantime there is little doubt that a period in which they may get hurt lies ahead of investors in pulp enterprises, and that pulp prices will temporarily be reduced as intense selling competition develops with the new production.

In the long run, of course, the outlook for the B.C. forest industry is excellent. The present difficulties are of timing and nothing else.

'Sick' Strike

APPARENTLY THERE is not unanimity among the employees of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, the government-owned link between Vancouver and Prince George, that because of unsettled work grievances the operation should be struck.

Certain of the employees, mostly members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (BRT), according to reports, have booked off "sick" in a form of work stoppage to which labor seldom resorts.

Although the full dayliner service northward has been disrupted, supervisory personnel are maintaining a schedule as far as Clinton, and some regular crews are continuing to operate the freights.

Just what are the grievances the rebellious trainmen nourish still is not clear. But a spokesman for the union has accused the PGE general manager, Mr. J. S. Broadbent, of threats against the workers unless they call off their "sick" stoppage. On Sunday, said the spokesman, it was decided they would defy the ultimatum from management, to return to work or risk dismissal.

So, once again, B.C. is faced with one of those disagreements between management and labor which can only result in inconvenience to the public, loss of wages for the "sick" workers and damage to the government's railroad.

The union concerned reports that it has asked the labor minister, Mr. Leslie Peterson, Q.C., to set up an industrial inquiry commission "to probe the operation of the railway." From the minister, at the time of writing, there has been no reply.

Whether or not there are good grounds for such an investigation, the implication being that there are serious faults in management of the PGE, is not at this point a matter for debate.

What does call for comment is the method being used by the union to force an issue. The form of the stoppage is not honest. The "sick" excuse is a contemptible thing; the more so because the truly ill worker will be tagged along with the others as a striker, with his livelihood in jeopardy.

Machinery does exist for settlement in cases of this kind and high-handed actions cannot be condoned either on the part of management or of unions.

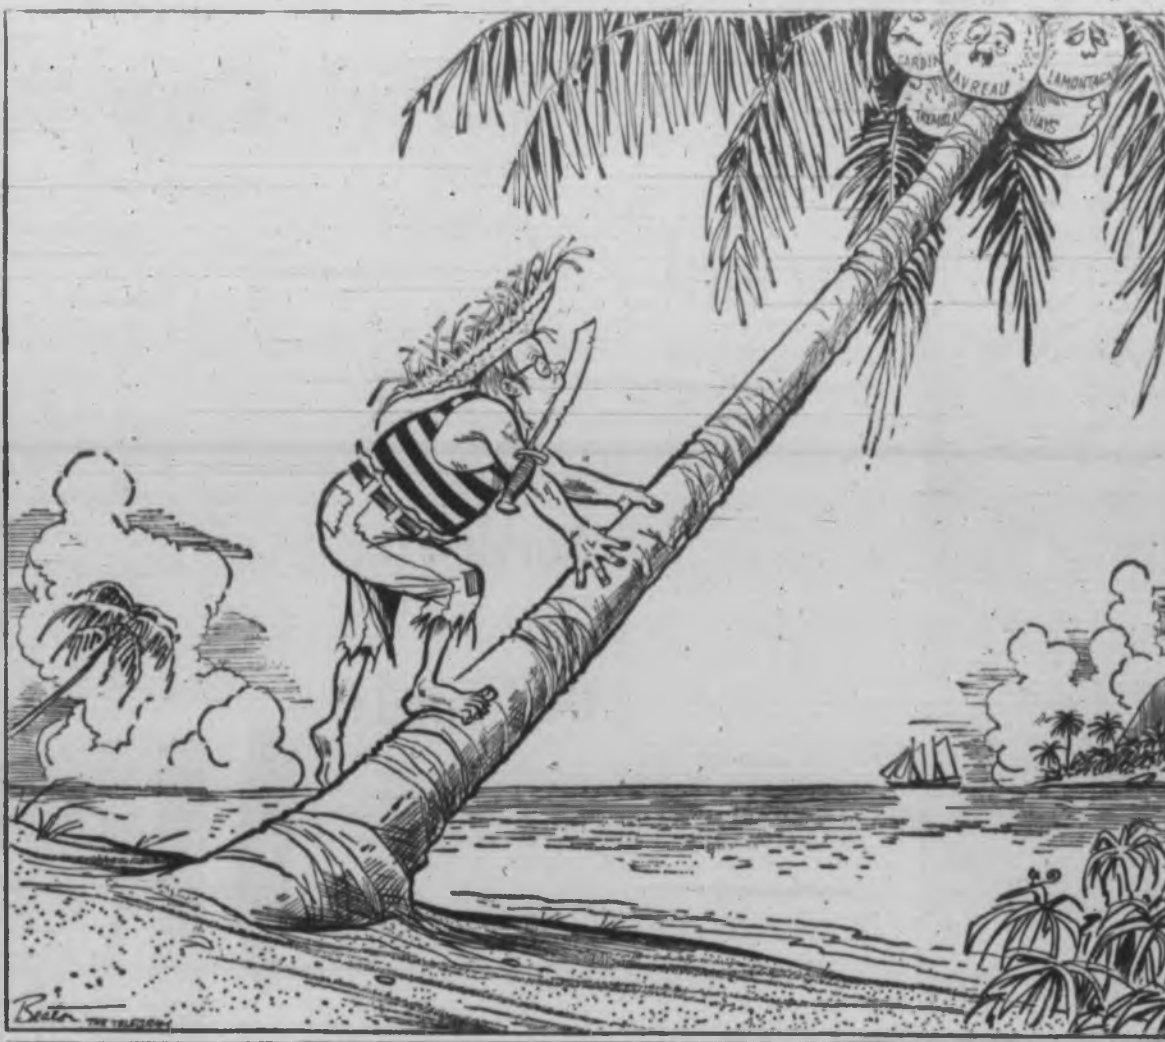

Closed Doors

VICTORIA'S MAYOR and aldermen have reached the unanimous conclusion that because of the acute need for more hospital accommodation, citizens should vote in favor of the regional plan under which a property tax averaging two mills would be levied to raise the community share of construction costs.

Many residents will have made up their minds similarly on their own, agreeing with city council's formal statement to the effect that a more equitable division of costs between the local ratepayers and the senior governments is most desirable and should be sought; perhaps sharing council's doubts about the continuing sufficiency of a two-mill rate, but taking the realistic view that there is no other choice at this time if the needed hospital expansion is to go forward but to vote in favor of the plan.

But the people of Victoria—and incidentally of the other parts of the capital region—would surely have been better served by the aldermanic board had the discussion that led to this conclusion been out in the open. Instead it was at a closed meeting. If one or two members of council were persuaded by logic to alter previously adverse positions—and there seems to be every likelihood that this was the case—the public got short measure in not being allowed to follow the reasoning.

Besides, the voters have a right to know, in relation to every important issue such as this, how their individual aldermen stand and how they act. Closed sessions have become too much the fashion at city hall. Whoever may head the administration after the December 11 elections, and whoever may be successful in the competition for council seats, it is to be hoped that the trend in 1966 will be back to doing the public's business in public except for those very few matters where privacy is essential in the city's interests.

Kosygin to Report on Progress

Khrushchev Pledges Unfulfilled

By VINCENT J. BURKE from Moscow

SEVEN years ago Nikita S. Khrushchev vowed to a cheering audience of the Communist Party faithful that the Soviet people would enjoy the "highest living standard in the world" by 1970—or even sooner.

He made the prediction in presenting a blueprint for Soviet economic expansion in the seven years from 1959 through 1965. The 21st party congress unanimously adopted the plan, which Khrushchev pledged would lift the Soviet Union with-in striking distance of the might and prosperity of the United States.

Today, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is expected to mount a Kremlin platform to give a preliminary report on the outcome of the seven-year plan and outline the economic program for 1966.

It is a safe bet that Kosygin will not repeat Khrushchev's promise to outstrip the United States by 1970. For in the intervening years, the Soviet Union has narrowed only slightly the enormous gap between the two nations.

The surging tempo of Soviet industrial growth has slackened, and Soviet agriculture has sunk into crippling stagnation. Many of the goals of the seven-year plan have not been achieved.

Although the slowdown in the rate of Soviet growth coincided with an acceleration in the growth rate of the U.S. economy, most experts agree that the Soviet Union has continued on the average, to expand at a faster rate than the United States.

But the experts disagree about the extent of the remaining Soviet "growth advantage." Some assert that it has fallen to a marginal level, as a recent state department report contends; others say it still is significantly large, as the Soviets maintain.

Resolving this question is very difficult, as the two nations' only have different diametrically opposed economic systems, but collect different basic data to describe them.

In reviewing Soviet performance, Kosygin, no doubt, will repeat an assertion being made by Soviet press that the 1959-65 plan for industrial growth was "over-fulfilled." This claim is based on the Soviet index of industrial production. Western experts refuse to accept this statistical measuring rod, contending that it is heavily weighted to show favorable Soviet results.

The Soviets say this index shows that over-all industrial production has climbed 84 per cent in the last seven years, outstripping the goal of an 80 per cent rise. What they sometimes neglect to add is that the index would have soared more than 100 per cent if the rate of Soviet growth had not slackened after 1959. Obviously, the Soviets are disappointed with results. Because of the deceleration in growth, industrial "reforms" have been devised and are scheduled to go into operation over the next two years.

"Boosting quality of output, which remains poor in the Soviet Union, is another objective of the new system which will gear bonuses for factory managers and personnel to the factory's profitability rather than its gross production, as is now the case.

Although an extremely high proportion of Soviet resources was devoted to defense and space, the country's expanding industrial base allowed marked gains in the supply of consumer goods.

Construction of housing fell short of the goal, even though the per capita supply increased faster than ever before. However, decades of neglect have left the Soviet people so ill-housed that unless building is sharply speeded, it will take two decades or longer before every urban Soviet family has a small apartment of its own.

Per capita supplies of meat increased only moderately, but the Soviet Union achieved or exceeded its relatively high production goals for such household appliances as washing machines, refrigerators and television sets.

Unofficial estimates, based on projections of Soviet production reports, indicate that the U.S.S.R. this year produced about 3.4 million washing machines. Output this year and last totaled more than 6 million. That means that in two years the Soviet Union has produced three-fourths as many washing machines as previously were in the nation.

The story for television sets is similar. This year's output of about 3.5 million is equal to more than one-fifth of all the pre-1965 models still operating. Also, this year's output of 1.5 million refrigerators increases the total supply by about one-fourth.

The biggest failure was in agriculture. This year, for the second time in three years, the Soviet Union has had to spend precious foreign exchange buying wheat for its own people.

The work week during the 7-year plan was cut to 41 hours, not below 40 hours as Khrushchev had promised would happen by the end of this year. And the work week remains six days long. With the Kremlin struggling to expand industrial production, no cuts in the work week are in sight now.

Wide Disparity in U.S.S.R. Production Costs

Soviet Examining New 'Profit System'

By VINCENT J. BURKE from Moscow

SOVIET economists have run into tough price problems in debating how to lay the groundwork for installing the new "profit system" for Soviet industry.

As a result, the new system, when finally installed, may bear even fewer superficial similarities to the capitalist profit system than was indicated last September when Premier Alexei N. Kosygin sketched it in broad outline.

Under the new system, "profit" is to be used simply as a measure of efficiency, with the government retaining ownership of plants and continuing to set prices... and allocate material.

The pricing problem arises from the fact that the Kremlin needs production of its high-cost industrial plants and mines and wants to keep them operating, even though they can't possibly make a "profit" if their products are priced at levels that would bring a fair profit to an average cost producer. Conversely, if prices are fixed to return profits for high-cost producers, there will be a windfall profit for other plants and a sharp increase in wholesale prices.

Under the new system, "profits" instead of "volume of production" will determine bonuses paid to plant managers and workers. This raises the problem of how to equalize the struggle for bonuses among workers whose enterprise may be handicapped by natural high-cost factors that are beyond their control and those who work for highly efficient enterprises. Since this problem can't be solved with one price, Soviet planners are now talking about establishing two or more prices for many products of industry.

From the Scriptures

I would not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope.—1 Thessalonians 4:3.

One price would be paid by the wholesaler or industrial buyer. The other price, known as an account or bookkeeping price, would be "received," or at least credited, to the producer. The latter price could vary from enterprise to enterprise to equalize conditions of production.

A majority of the Soviet planners working on the pricing problem are apparently agreed that "account" prices will have to be used, at least in some Soviet industries.

The weekly newspaper Economic Gazette devoted six pages to position papers summarizing the price debate that took place recently behind closed doors. Participants included representatives of the new state committee charged with establishing guidelines for wholesale prices under the profit system, the finance ministry and the Academy of Sciences' scientific council of price formation.

V. Sitin, chairman of the state price committee, told the gathering:

"One should not forget that some enterprises have low individual expenses of production which due to a number of reasons beyond their control are higher than average for their industry. Here we are to decide: In what industries and to what extent should 'account prices' be applied."

Some participants warned that widespread use of account, or fictitious bookkeeping, prices will conceal inefficiencies. Others argued that instead of account prices, differential rates could be set for rent charged to enterprises for use of government-owned property and tools. But the dominant view seemed to be that some use of account prices will be essential.

The chief of Gosplan's price bureau noted that the cost of mining iron ore at Tulsky and Lipetsk is 15 times higher than at Magnitogorsk. An economist from the Oil Research Institute said the oil industry has been using a two-price system for 25 years and must continue to do so because the cost of production is 21 times as high in one region as it is in the lower-cost producing area.

The conferees also discussed without agreement the question of how much interest enterprises should pay for use of state capital. One participant proposed the charge be 6 per cent or 7 per cent.

They agreed it would be difficult to figure out how high to set the premium prices for high-quality goods and the discounts for low-quality products that Kosygin wants established.

One participant suggested that it might be necessary in such cases to abandon central-price-fixing and set only the maximum and minimum range of permissible price.

P. Tsybin, chief of Gosplan's price bureau, agreed that it may be necessary to give the enterprises themselves some power to set prices for their products.

Recalling that the Kremlin has decreed that wholesale prices must be set at levels that will provide a profit for a normally working enterprise, Tsybin put his finger on a basic problem: "Which of them shall be considered as working normally? Up to now, there is no definite criteria for them."

Today in History

Robert Ket, a wealthy English yeoman, was hanged 416 years ago today—in 1549—at Norwich for leading a rebellion. A feast held at his manor to complain against the government's policy of fencing off and selling public land degenerated into a riot and became a military conquest of Norwich, the nearest large town. The rising was easily put down by the Duke of Warwick, with foreign troops, and Ket and his brother were speedily tried and condemned.

1781—Delaware became the first state to ratify the United States constitution.

1941—Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and Canada declared war on Japan.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—President Wilson asked for more power to deal with anti-American subversion. British forces retreated before the Bulgarian conquest of Serbia.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—President Roosevelt promised U.S. aid to Greece, now successfully repelling the Italian invasion. Two German aircraft were shot down in flight over England.

The day previous Bristol was heavily bombed at night after sporadic day raids over England. Marshal Badoglio resigned as chief of the Italian general staff. Russia signed a trade agreement with German-controlled Slovakia.

Labor Divided

Wilson Must Face
The Enemy Within

By THOMAS LARD from London

PRIME MINISTER Harold Wilson, whose popularity has reached an unprecedented peak among the electorate here, is facing a new political threat. And it comes from where it hurts: the heart of the Labor movement.

Mr. Wilson has emerged from the Rhodesian independence crisis as Britain's unchallenged leader. His television address to the nation on the night of the rebellion in the colony was viewed in more than 12 million homes.

He spoke not as a party politician—his words were those of a disturbed father of all British subjects, concerned with the dangers looming ahead. And with the Conservative party severely split over the issue (some Tories would like to bestow knighthoods on the rebellious Rhodesian leaders) the prime minister enjoys complete authority despite his meager parliamentary majority of two.

His party's popularity ratings consequently creep upwards. The trend began after the government announced strict new restrictions curbing further the inflow of colored immigrants. One national opinion survey now gives Labor an 18.5-point lead over their Conservative opponents, predicting a parliamentary majority of more than 100 seats if the country went to the polls today.

Why, then, the disturbance? The Radical Alliance, a newly formed left-wing pressure group, introduced itself on the political scene here at a large-scale press conference—the reports of which Mr. Wilson will long remember. For the group announced that it will sponsor at the next general election a colored immigrant to run against a senior cabinet minister. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart.

The candidate is 23-year-old Pakistani law student Tariq Ali, a former president of the Oxford (University) Union. His candidature will prove at least embarrassing to Labor, divide the marginal left-wing vote in the riding and dramatize the lack of unity behind the prime minister.

The group deplores what it calls the government's willingness to underwrite racial prejudice to win easy votes, its lack of genuine initiative to stop the slaughter in Southeast Asia (which now may backfire after Mr. Stewart's bold Moscow move) and its failure to reshape Britain's over-stretched armed forces, at present both expensive and relatively ineffective.

It is backed by Lord Bertrand Russell, the British philosopher, actor Leo McKern, author Alan Sillitoe and many other influential people. It also enjoys the support of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

"After 13 years of Conservative administration came the last general election, and Labor won," said the Pakistani candidate. "Then followed the 14th year of Tory rule."

He agreed that his group's activity could well contribute to a defeat of the Labor government. But he declared that the voice of conscience was more important for the Labor movement than any parliamentary majority.

Mr. Wilson's political advisers must be asking themselves how far the group's influence may spread in the coming months. There is no straight answer to their question. But the voice of the Labor left may be given a hearing by the electorate as soon as the important by-election is called at Hull in a few weeks' time.

And its influence may be carried to millions next spring when a new British national newspaper, The News, is launched. It is to be published by the Labor Press Co-operative Society Ltd., which describes its policy as "Left-of-centre in the Labor movement."

Despite Gains

Japan
Cries
'Ruin'

By PETER WILSHER from London

OF the 503 major Japanese companies which have just released their latest six-month financial reports, 110 paid no dividend—85 of them for at least the second time—and another 77 cut their payment to shareholders.

The chairman of Fuji Electric resigned as a gesture of responsibility for his firm's poor performance, along with the president and chief executives of such plants as Mitsubishi Rayon, Dai-Nippon Sugar and Hodegaya Chemical.

Elevator Sekisui chemical directors departed after showing a $2 million loss on plastics. And the number of corporate bankruptcies this year in Japan—over 5,000 to the end of October—is already 25 per cent ahead of the 1964 figure (itself a post-war record).

The world "recession" appears with grim monotony in the Tokyo newspapers, in political speeches, in financial projections and in the government's own publications.

It is not too difficult to support the idea that the country, after a decade of breath-taking and unparalleled growth, has now stalled into a tail-spin.

And yet... it is really remarkably difficult to relate this aura of abject gloom to the actual social and industrial scene, which I have spent the last three weeks studying, in teeming Tokyo, in bustling Osaka, in old but prosperous centers like Kyoto, and in the newer, but already bursting-at-the-seams development areas like Hamamatsu.

Even the figures which are produced to indicate slump have a habit of rebounding with heavy irony on the ear of a Western—and particularly a British—visitor.

After all, a 4 per cent growth in gross national product, which is what the ministry of international trade and industry is forecasting for 1965-66, may seem like back-peddaling to a nation that has been averaging 10 per cent and quite often hitting 15 per cent, ever since 1951. But it looks rather different from a country which has rarely succeeded in beating 3 per cent this century.

It is rather hard to take too seriously the woes of an economy where department store sales are described as "stagnant" when they have only risen 14 per cent; where "warnings over graduate employment" turn out to mean that there may be only two jobs in major firms for each university graduate next spring. Instead of the usual three; where half-yearly bonuses this summer only went up by 9.8 per cent; and where color-television sales in the home market are only 10,000 a month (in a country where the official average family income is $1,500 a year).

There is one Japanese statistic this year which outweighs all others. Exports, for the nine months, January to October, were up by a clear 32 per cent, from $4.4 billion to $5.8 billion, on the equivalent of 1964. And this was achieved without cutting prices, in the most important areas, by a single yen.

In Baby Boom

Control Theory Doubtful

By OTTO VON HARSBURG

BEYOND wars and political crises there is one major fact affecting Southeast Asia and the Far East: a change in the birth-rate.

In all developed areas of Asia the turn of the tide is sudden, not to say brutal. In Singapore, only three years ago the flood of children was rising; now the government is able to terminate gradually its school construction program, since present buildings will cover the needs of tomorrow. In Hong Kong something similar is about to occur. In the other countries, too, the trend is setting in.

This "success," according to official sources, is the consequence of two facts: the growing economic prosperity of the population which teaches that television or a motorcar is considered more attractive than tiresome youngsters. There is furthermore the intensive propaganda of the family planning groups. The latter, utilizing all the weapons of modern persuasion, have succeeded in popularizing contraceptives. Generally the organizers stay wisely in the background. They are highly discreet concerning the origin of their funds.

The "family planning" outfits are wealthy. Governments are nearly everywhere, are supporting them. But these subsidies are insufficient. The bulk of the means come from elsewhere. A substantial part of the money is provided directly or indirectly by the industries producing contraceptives.

The combination of the two forces is highly significant. On the one side are the politicians. The latter are widely responsible for the situation. Whoever knows a country like India—just to mention one of them—is aware that it is the pride, corruption and ignorance of the leaders which promote the misery of the masses. If, instead of investing foreign aid in prestige-projects, they developed agriculture and education, the population could be decently fed.

It is in order to cover up these errors that these men try to reduce the generations of tomorrow. The pill-merchants on the other hand enrich themselves and open up new markets—just like the munition-makers of yesterday, who master-minded wars in order to sell their products.

Recently, studies in agriculture and zoology have shown that a brutal intervention in the natural process frequently leads to unforeseeable consequences which it is difficult to avoid, once the error has been committed.

Pilot Died a Hero Bringing Plane In

By GENE GAFFNEY

NORTH SALEM, N.Y. (UPI) — They'll bury Capt. Charles J. (Chuck) White in Arlington National Cemetery, where heroes go.

White, 42, was the pilot of the Eastern Air Lines Constellation involved in a collision Friday with a Trans World Airlines jetliner. White worked a miracle for 49 survivors aboard his plane and died while doing it.

They found his charred, almost unrecognizable body in the passenger section of the Constellation Sunday. And, putting two and two together, everyone agreed that White died in the finest tradition of a ship's captain in the passenger service.

Might Have Jumped

There were two escape hatches in the pilot's compartment of White's Constellation and he might have been able to jump to safety through one of them.

But when they found his body it was about three rows back of the bulkhead leading to the pilot's compartment, near a passenger emergency exit. The conclusion was that White, traditionally the last to leave his ship as captain, had perished in a flash fire aboard the plane as he tried to shove open a door. White, an air force veteran from Brooklyn who lately made his home in Rye Beach, N.H., became involved in a quick and deadly crash Friday when the jetliner clipped off his Constellation's tail controls.

Distress Signal

Seconds after the collision, Roger Holt of Northampton, N.H., White's first officer, radioed a distress signal:

"Mayday, Mayday, Mayday. This is Eastern Flight 853. Request emergency clearance to Kennedy, request any radar contacts in area, request vector approach."

For 10 minutes then, while terror gripped the hearts of some of the passengers aboard White's Boston-to-Newark shuttle plane, White proved he was a flier's flier.

"I have no controls except throttle, will attempt to fly this thing as long as possible," White radioed.

Then — "We are going in."

No Controls

An airliner has three primary controls — rudders, ailerons and elevators. White had none of them. Therefore his plane was virtually uncontrollable, except for engine power.

White was 10,000 feet in the air when the accident occurred. His problem was to bring the plane down to the ground on engines alone without the primany controls or even a landing gear, which was jammed. If you open all four throttles in an airliner the nose goes up. Retard all four throttles and the nose goes down. If you retard the three and four engines — those on the right side — and advance the one and two engines — those on the left side — the plane will turn. Provided you know how and timing is good.

Passengers' Welfare Came First

Delicate Approach

So White started down, retarding two engines, advancing two, retarding two, advancing two and so on, circling now and then in the long descent. From the air a hill isn't always a hill. Sometimes it looks like tableland.

The only spot White could sight to set down his plane in North Salem and vicinity, a heavily populated residential area, required a delicate approach into a valley. So White came in, skimming over a barn and silo, missing a large tree, hitting smaller trees. It may well be that he was beaten in pulling off a complete miracle and living to tell about it by the fact that the land wasn't flat. The plane came down on a slope they call Hunts Mountain.

Slammed On Power

As White saw the rise ahead of his big plane, he slammed on the power at the last moment to raise the nose to compensate for the rise. But the rise was too high and the aircraft broke in two and caught fire. That's the way aviation experts reconstructed it.

Those aboard the plane had known they were in trouble. White, according to passengers, had told them over the plane's intercom:

"We have been in a collision. The airplane is out of control. We're going to have to make a crash landing. I'm preparing for the crash landing and I'm going to be so busy I won't have time to get back to talk to you any more."

Advance two engines. Reverse two others. Circle around Drop a little. Chuck White was busy while some of his passengers prayed and held tight to their seats.

Married Women Not Hired

Stewardess Matrons Can Still Hold Jobs

WINNIPEG (CP) — Stewardesses who become wives and mothers will be able to continue their airborne careers with Air Canada.

But relaxation of the single-girls-only rule is not retroactive.

Chinese Aid For Cambodia

TOKYO (AP) — China has agreed to grant military aid to Cambodia, Peking radio said Monday. The disclosure was made in a letter dated Nov. 29 sent by Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. But no details of the agreement were given.

The new policy, which applies to 800 stewardesses based in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, was announced Monday following negotiations between management and the Canadian Airlines Flight Attendants Association.

An Air Canada spokesman said: "In cases of pregnancy, the stewardess will be given a leave of absence. She'll be allowed to return to work after she has her baby."

The change does not mean, however, that married girls will be hired as stewardesses. "It doesn't even mean that we'll take on former stewardesses who have since married," the spokesman said.

Boycott Crimped Business

Tight Christmas in Natchez

"Going out of business" signs hang in several store windows beneath the Christmas decorations on downtown streets. For many other merchants this is not a happy season.

Most store owners here failed to join fellow merchants around the nation in stocking up on goods for the Christmas rush. For it appeared there would be no Christmas boom. This was part of the price this historic city is paying for a crippling three-month old boycott by Negroes that one civil rights leader has claimed was so successful it won the greatest concessions ever made in Mississippi.

The outlook for the business community brightened Friday when a white-haired Mayor John Nasser and Negro leader Charles Evers stood side-by-side and announced the end of the boycott.

Negroes in number joined whites in downtown stores Saturday for the first time in months. Whites who had been afraid to come to town for fear they would become involved in a racial incident also resumed old shopping habits.

But the scars on the business community will be deep.

"I had to cancel my order for Christmas merchandise," one store owner said. "I was afraid to build up my stock. It will be a year before I can catch up."

The store owners don't like to talk about the boycott and its effect for fear of unsettling the racial waters. But at least six downtown stores reportedly have quit business since the boycott was clamped on by Evers, state field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Boycott" became the byword of the Negro community here early in September. The result shook this river city which has a long history of racial unrest, until Dec. 4.

It was called by Evers after local NAACP president George Metcalfe was critically injured by a bomb attached to his car's ignition. A series of Negro grievances were presented to city and county officials, and Evers warned there would be a "blackout" of the city.

Murder Trial Set Today

SELM, Ala. (UPI)—Three white men charged with the fatal beating of a white civil rights worker will go on trial here today. Last week similar trial resulted in milestone guilty verdicts.

The three are charged with the fatal beating of Rev. James Ray, Boston Unitarian minister, on a Selma street shortly before last spring's Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march.

NIGHTRIDER SENTENCED Last Thursday, in Anniston, Ala., Hubert Damon Strange, 25, was convicted of the night-riding slaying of Willie Brewster, a Negro, and sentenced to a 10-year prison term for manslaughter. Friday, in Montgomery, a federal jury found three Ku Klux Klansmen guilty of violating the civil rights of a white woman participating in the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

Reeb was beaten as he left a store here on March 9. He died later in a Birmingham hospital. Charged with his murder are Odell Hoggie, 30, a mechanic; his brother William Stanley Hoggie, 36, a salesman, and Elmer Cook, 41, the manager of a novelty company.

BEATING WITNESSES McLeod said witnesses for the prosecution will include Rev. Clark Olson, of Berkeley, Calif., and Rev. Otis Miller, a Massachusetts Associate of Reeb. Both men witnessed the fatal beating.

The defendants were indicted separately, but at the request of their lawyer McLeod agreed to try them together.

White is survived by his wife, Angelus, and three children—a son, 18, and two daughters, 17 and 14.

Ecumenical Council Most Vital Religious Event

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Editor

The Vatican Ecumenical Council was the most significant religious event of this century. It laid the groundwork for changes in the Roman Catholic Church as far-reaching as any wrought by Martin Luther at the time of the Protestant Reformation.

As a result of this historic four-year summit conference of bishops from every nation, the world's largest religious body will:

- Conduct its worship services in new ways.
- Decentralize its form of government.
- Radically revise its attitude toward other religions.

- Give greater prominence to the Bible as a sourcebook of doctrine.
- Accord new dignity and importance to the laity.

- Overhaul its seminaries to insure better selection and preparation of priests.
- Put nuns into modern dress.

That's not all the Council did, but it's enough to indicate the breathtaking scope of its achievements.

MANY YEARS

Not all the changes it wrought will be visible immediately to the church's 590,000,000 members. It will take many years, in some cases, to implement the broad charters of reform which were laid down by the council fathers.

But the die has now been cast, and the life of the Catholic church for centuries to come will be shaped by the decisions made in St. Peter's Basilica since the late Pope John XXIII called the council to order on Oct. 11, 1962.

SOME APPALLED

Some Catholic traditionalists, who preferred the old ways, are appalled by the whole business. Their viewpoint was vigorously represented in the Council by a small but determined minority of conservative bishops who made up in parliamentary skill what they lacked in voting power.

Their manoeuvres succeeded on many occasions in postponing action on important documents. This led to premature gloom-mongering by disappointed Liberals and gave rise to a widespread public impression that the council was foundering on the rocks of conservative intransigence.

MAJORITY COMMITTED

Nothing could be further from the truth. The key fact about the council, from the day it opened until the day it closed, was the overwhelming size of the majority committed to Pope John's program of renewal and reform.

So this revolution in what was for centuries a staid and change-resistant institution cannot be regarded as a coup engineered by a few hot-eyed reformers. It represents the considered judgment and enthusiastic will of most of the 2,300 bishops who patiently endured endless weeks of Latin debate in order to cope with a cruelly long agenda.

SWEEPING REFORM

The first fruit of their labor was a sweeping reform in Catholic liturgical practices.

The council fathers decreed that public worship was henceforth to be conducted in the language of the people instead of Latin so members of the congregation could be active participants rather than silent spectators. Provision was made for revising the order of the mass, purifying it of medieval accretions and redundancies, and placing more emphasis on sermons, scripture reading and hymn singing.

RE-DEFINITION

Next, the Council turned its attention to the task of re-defining the power structure of the church, and correcting the one-sided emphasis on papal supremacy which resulted from the uncompleted work of the Vatican Council of 1870.

The corrective which the council adopted was the "doctrine of collegiality" which asserts that all bishops, by God-given right rather than by papal sufferance, share with the Pope in the responsibility for governing the whole church.

POPE'S SUPREMACY

The council's document was at pains to reaffirm the Pope's supremacy and to make clear that the authority of the bishops was to be exercised only in conjunction with and never apart from the Pope. But the door was opened to future decentralization of power.

A related decree provided for creation of a new "synod of bishops" or episcopal Senate, which will include representatives of all national hierarchies and will be rather like a little ecumenical council. This body will meet in Rome at the call of the Pope to advise and consult with him on major policy decisions. The Pope has already announced that the first session will be held in 1967.

NATIONAL TALKS

The council also called for reform and internationalization of the Roman curia (which Pope Paul has promised to undertake at once), and empowered national episcopal conferences, such as the national Catholic welfare conference in the United States, to deal with many questions hitherto referred to Rome.

These actions, when fully implemented, will mean greater local autonomy, and will give non-Italian Catholics a bigger voice in the church's affairs than they've had in the past.

RADICAL REVISIONS

A radical revision of Catholic relations with other religions was decreed in three different documents of major importance. The first commits Catholics to establish warm new ties of co-operation, friendship and dialogue with their "separated brethren" of other Christian churches.

The second recognizes the spiritual values inherent in non-Christian religions, and particularly the "common patrimony" which Christians share with Jews. It also repudiates a long-held notion that Jews are under a divine curse because of the crucifixion of Jesus, and declares all forms of anti-semitism.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

The third document, in many ways the most revolutionary action taken by the council, puts the Catholic Church on record for the first time as believing that religious liberty is a God-ordained human right which is not to be contravened by any government or institution.

Protestant observers, who attended all sessions of the council, were delighted with the religious liberty declaration.

BIBLE READING

They also were pleased with a council document which accords to the Bible as much reverence and authority as Luther ever did. This document urges Bible reading by Catholics; encourages Catholic scholars to employ modern methods of Biblical study, including form criticism; and affirms the reliability of the Biblical record in terms which leave the door open for the acknowledgment that human authors may have erred in some non-essential details, and that they sometimes used literary forms such as poetry, parable and myth, which were never meant to be read as literal history.

The long-range effects of the new Catholic emphasis on the Bible are impossible to calculate. But one prominent Catholic theologian, Rev. Gregory Baum, predicts that the ultimate influence of this document will be greater than that of any other action taken by the Council.

Dense Fog Flees Dry Ice Flakes

SEATTLE (AP) — Efforts to disperse fog by seeding it with powdered dry ice will begin at Seattle-Tacoma airport next month, Airport Manager Don Shay announced Monday.

The technique is already used at Spokane, Portland, Pendleton and Medford, Ore., Boise, Idaho, Salt Lake City, Reno and other cities.

Shay said the port of Seattle, which operates the airport, made arrangements with Seattle Flight Service Inc. to do the fog seeding.

Jack M. Conrad, President of Seattle Flight Service, said

Beef Club Plans Help

Luxton 4-H Beef Club will meet at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 15, in the home of club leader Mrs. Moira Pitt, 3773 Duke Road.

Special attention will be given to club members needing calves, Mrs. Pitt said.

"The club will help its members in the purchasing of the animals."

The club is open for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20 years.

seeding would get under way with the first heavy fog next month, during which temperatures are near or below freezing.

The seeding plane will fly 100 feet above the fog, probably at an altitude of 800 to 1,000 feet, Conrad said. He said he expects to clear a corridor about 9,000 feet long and a quarter of a mile wide over the runway and approach. The corridor should remain clear of fog for 20 to 40 minutes, he said.

BEST AT FREEZING

If the seeding is to be most successful, the fog must be at a freezing temperature or below. Some results can be obtained up to 38 degrees, Conrad said.

"When dry ice pellets are dropped into the super-cooled fog, a chemical reaction changes water particles into ice crystals," said Shay. "These literally start a very fine snow-fall, releasing the moisture and dissipating the fog."

The fog-seeding will cost the port of Seattle $40.50 an hour of actual flight time.

Gooderham's 1832
is an unusually light and mellow Canadian whisky.

Thanks to our windmill.

When we started making whisky back in 1832, we built a huge windmill on our first distillery site.

Our founder, William Gooderham, used it to grind the grain that went into his first whiskies. (35 years before Confederation.)

Even back in those days, we were very choosy about the things that went into our whisky. Like our ryes and our barley.

And as we've grown older, it's one of the lessons we've never forgotten.

That's why when you first sip 1832, you'll know it's a special whisky. With special touches that Canadian whisky-drinkers have come to expect from Gooderham's.

So, when the talk gets around to whisky, remember 1832. And our windmill.

It's a sure-fire way of not getting just an ordinary run-of-the-mill whisky.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whiskies since 1832.

Staggers Then Rallies

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market reacted to the credit tightening move by the U.S. Federal Reserve board with shock and surprise that battered prices in a huge wave of early selling, but the list came back to cut its losses greatly. Had the first-hour loss remained uncut, it would have been the steepest for any day since Nov. 2, 1963, the day President Kennedy was assassinated. The final loss, though sharp, will never make history. Volume was swelled to the fourth largest in history, 11,680,000 shares compared with 11,600,000 Friday, and the largest since May 29, 1962 when 14,750,000 shares changed hands. Blue chips and cats-and-dogs were swept downward as big blocks of stocks were dumped on the market.

Mines Buist

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mines was up .87 to $17 and Borneo gained .16 to close at 76. Peco was up .12 to $1.99 and Rymont gained .10 to close at 1.78. Pyramid was up .13 to $1.37 and Ulica was down .15 to $1.85. In the oils, Prosper was up .08 at 62. Fort St. John was down .05 at $1.75 and Royal American was up .04 at $1.53. In the industrials, Neon gained .12 to reach $3.12 and Massey-Ferguson was up .12 at $34. (22).

Banks Weaken

TORONTO (CP)—With news that the bank rate was increased Sunday by the Bank of Canada, prices took a quiet tumble in moderate trading. Bank stocks immediately reflected weakness with Royal dropping 1 to 71, Imperial Commerce 1/2 to 62 1/2, Nova Scotia 3/4 to 70, Toronto-Dominion 1/2 to 90, while Montreal was unchanged at 60. This weakness carried over into all other stock groupings on the Toronto index and the TSE index declined 1.76 to 154.32.

Metals Hard Hit

MONTREAL (CP)—All sections dropped sharply in moderate trading. Metals showed the sharpest losses. In the base section Noranda fell 1 1/2 to 59. Consolidated Hudson Bay mining each dropped one point to 49, and 75 respectively. Among primary metals Steel of Canada was up 1/4 at 25 and Alcan 1/4 at 59.

Stocks Falling Fast As Bank Rates Rise

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Increase of the U.S. federal reserve discount rate from four to 4½ per cent and the subsequent raising of the Bank of Canada rate from 4½ per cent to 4½ per cent, sent shudders through the stock markets Monday.

The tightening of money created greater investor misgiving in the U.S. than in Canada, where some such move has long been anticipated and probably discounted.

At New York, stock prices dropped sharply after the opening and at one time Dow Jones Industrial average had dropped about 18 points. There was some restoration of confidence later and the final drop of 6.57 points was comparatively moderate.

U.S. bond prices were also much weaker with prices falling by more than a point.

In addition to the increased interest rates, the U.S. treasury warned that capital expenditure outside the U.S. would be limited to 90 per cent of 1964 foreign expenditures.

This caused some concern in Canada, where many companies are controlled in the U.S.

Otherwise Canadian securities rode the storm well. Bonds were down at the opening but rallied during the day and in some cases actually closed above Friday's levels.

The long term effect, however, of the higher cost of money is likely to result in a slowing down of industrial expansion in both countries. This is interpreted as an anti-inflationary move to relieve pressures in the public building and other industries where shortage of supplies and a tight labor situation is causing problems.

JOHNSON ANNOYED

Despite this, the action of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board was not popular with President Johnson.

The president regretted that the step had been taken before the 1966 Budget had been prepared.

The president had an interview with W. McChesney Martin, chairman of the federal reserve board with whom he has previously clashed on policy.

Business circles in the U.S. noted that while President Johnson had been successful in preventing copper and aluminum producers from raising their prices recently, there was no indication that he could persuade the Federal Reserve Board to change its policy.

"Mr. Johnson cannot dump money" referring to the administration's policy in threatening to empty its copper and aluminum stockpiles to keep metal prices from rising.

BANKS WORRIED

The increase in the Bank of Canada rate by half a point to 4½ per cent made it increasingly difficult for chartered banks in Canada to compete with near banks and other institutions doing banking business, said G. Arnold Hart, chairman of the Bank of Montreal, at its annual general meeting Monday.

Mr. Hart said it was important that the six per cent ceiling on the amount banks may charge as interest on loans should be removed without delay.

Rival institutions were competing with rival institutions who were able to pay more to their depositors than the top rate at which banks could charge their customers for loans.

Mr. Hart and other bank leaders said that most loans by banks were made at the ceiling of six per cent. The prime rate was 5½ per cent and it was only in this small margin of a quarter of one per cent by which the banks could place their loans.

The banks are now considering whether to raise the prime rate to six per cent, which would make the maximum the same as the minimum, a situation which could lead to discrimination and would force borrowers into the hands of those institutions which are not limited in the amount of interest they can charge.

Fraser

Company Names Officer

Top executive of British America Paint Co. Ltd., after Jan. 1 will be David R. Fraser, an officer of Canadian Industries Ltd., which has purchased all the outstanding shares of old Victoria paint company. Mr. Fraser will take over as president from W. Allan Pendray, grandson of the founder of company.

The new president comes from Burlington, Ontario. He has had extensive management experience with CIL and associated companies.

While CIL intends to retain Bapco's existing staff and services, other members of the founding family are also leaving at the end of the year. They are Fred Manning and Gordon Verley, who held executive posts in the company.

3,000 Students Take New Test

TORONTO (CP)—Some 3,000 Canadian senior high school students Saturday took the United States scholastic aptitude test as part of a new entrance program for several Canadian universities. The tests are required for students entering the University of Toronto. Fourteen other Canadian universities will be involved in the program later.

There are estimated to be at least 20,000,000 pets in England, about one for every household.

WHO HAS THE BEST PLACE TO MEET?

LONDON (Reuters)—A ticket guarantee of £225,000 ($875,000) for Hello, Dolly, the Broadway musical which opened at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, last Thursday, was announced Monday. Peter Cadbury, chairman of Keith Prowse and Associated Ticket Agencies, making the announcement, said it was a record guarantee for an initial amount and covered only the first 26 weeks of the show.

Cabinet Okays $95,000,000 In School Referendums

The provincial cabinet has authorized more than $95,000,000 worth of public school construction referendums during 1965, says Education Minister Peterson.

About half of the referendums have already been held. Three, representing school construction worth $2,200,000 in Qualicum, Ladysmith and Windermere school districts, failed to win approval of the voters.

The remainder will be voted on during the December municipal elections.

Mr. Peterson gave the school referendum figures while opening the Haldane Elementary School at Chase, one of three openings at which he was to officiate Monday in the Kamloops school district.

Mr. Peterson said this year's $95,000,000 does not represent the total expenditure which will be needed in the current three-year period for which the referendums are valid.

Portions of referendums approved in the last two years and those that may be approved in the next two, will add to the total, he said.

Both the number and the value of referendums are "substantially higher than usual," the minister said. "There were 53 in 1964, with a total of $41,000,000."

Mr. Peterson said the increase suggests an approaching peak in the rate of growth of school population.

Implementation of curriculum changes recommended in the Chant royal commission report are also a factor, along with the rising cost of school construction, which has gone up 13.3 per cent across B.C. in the last three years.

With Air 'Buses' Airline Fares May Plummet

VANCOUVER (CP)—Giant air buses carrying 600 passengers may be a reality within 10 years, the president of Canadian Pacific Airlines said Monday.

J. C. Gilmer told a meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade the company's plans for 1967 include introduction of stretched DC-8s capable of carrying 240 passengers. Fare reductions of 10 to 15 per cent "might well be justified" with these planes.

"Beyond these stretched jets there is the further prospect of the transformation of military troop carriers into giant air buses capable of carrying 600 or more passengers," he said.

"It is quite within the bounds of possibility that such aircraft could be available in the early 1970's, in which event the effect on fare levels could be most spectacular."

Text of Mr. Gilmer's address was released in advance.

Boost in Bank Interest

John D Warns Of Tight Money

OTTAWA (UPI) — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker Monday forecast the one-half of one per cent in the Bank of Canada interest rate would bring tight money.

And New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas demanded the government immediately make public its overall economic policy.

The new bank rate "will usher in an era of tight money," Diefenbaker warned in a terse statement issued by his office.

U.S. CURB

The Bank of Canada increased its rate from 4 1/4 to 4 3/4 per cent, in line with a boost in rates by the U.S. federal reserve board. Washington announced a curb on U.S. business investment in Canada. And in a third development Canada agreed to limit its foreign-exchange holdings in return for continued free access to borrowing from Wall Street.

STATEMENT DEMANDED

"We demand the government issue immediately a statement regarding its overall economic policy in the face of these developments," said the Douglas statement.

"The government's drift is made critically apparent by the lack at this crucial time of a full-time minister of finance."

Both party leaders charged the developments were further evidence of Canada's dependence on the U.S.

Library Trustee Honored

A former city solicitor for New Westminster, 77-year-old H. Norman Lidster, was honored here Friday for 40 years of work in B.C. library services.

Mr. Lidster was a guest at a luncheon given by Provincial Secretary Black.

Mr. Lidster, retiring as a member of the B.C. Public Library Commission, was born Sept. 5, 1888. He became chairman of the New Westminster library committee when he was elected to city council there in 1925.

He became president of the B.C. Library Association in 1936 and he received the Award of Merit from the Canadian Library Trustee Association in 1962.

Farmer Finds Gold Bust

SALONIKA (AP) — A Greek farmer digging in his field has found a life-size gold bust of the Roman emperor Marcus Aurelius, Salonika University announced Sunday. Prof. George Gakoulakis said it was made of pure gold and in excellent condition. Marcus Aurelius ruled the Roman Empire from 161 A.D. until his death in 180.

Awaits Validity Test

Mac-Powell Tax Appeal Adjourned

A court of revision to hear MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.'s appeal against a government land assessment will likely be delayed until validity of the assessment is decided in Supreme Court in Vancouver.

Mac-Powell is appealing a $34,167,939 assessment value placed by the government on 39,000 acres of former Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway land on Vancouver Island which the firm purchased last New Year's Eve.

After a 10-minute session Monday, the hearing was adjournd until Jan. 4, and lawyers indicated further adjournments are likely pending outcome of the Supreme Court case.

Victoria lawyer Allan Baker, chairman of the three-man court of revision, was unable to attend the hearing because of illness.

Appearing for the Crown before acting chairman L. A. Pope and D. R. Sargent, were Lloyd McKenzie of Victoria and David Edgar of the attorney-general's department.

Mac-Powell was represented by lawyer C. W. Brazier of Vancouver, and company lawyer Alex Robertson, also of Vancouver.

Mr. McKenzie requested the adjournment in view of the fact that a writ has been issued by the appellant in the Supreme Court at Vancouver.

He asked for an adjournment until Jan. 4, when a date could be set for the hearing, or a further adjournment could be requested.

Mr. Brazier agreed to the adjournment but said he reserved the right to question the jurisdiction of the court of revision. Millions of dollars in tax money are involved in the assessment, made by the government on the 39,000 acres now owned by Mac-Powell.

Under the government's assessment that the land was worth $34,167,939 at the time of purchase, Mac-Powell could owe $8,541,984 for a 25 per cent bonus tax applicable to alienation of land under the 1960 E & N Belt Tax Act.

Mac-Powell would also owe about $2,000,000 annually in school and services taxes collected by the government from unorganized territories.

"At 50,000 miles
you may begin to wonder if your Mercedes-Benz 230S will ever rattle.
A most unflappable car."

Even at dusk, visibility in Mercedes-Benz 230S is superb. Clip coupon for full story on this staunch car.

The body is welded 10,000 times. Its design is a patented safety feature. A lovingly assembled engine can cruise all day at 90 mph. Take 3 minutes to read about the Mercedes-Benz 230S, built to be the best—not the best seller.

GIVEN humane care, the Mercedes-Benz 230S will easily outlive your golf clubs and the family cat. The secret of its longevity: careful construction, costlier materials, and an engineering staff whose creations are watched like hawks by other car designers.

Flattering note: competitive engineers have admitted they would like to copy some Mercedes-Benz features, but—alas—they can't afford to without shooting up their cars' prices.

World's oldest car maker

Mercedes-Benz has had 80 years to store up its expertise. It's a good feeling to know that the Mercedes-Benz 230S comes from the world's oldest automobile maker—from the inventors of the automobile.

Historical sidelight: the inventors were two German engineers, Gottlieb Daimler and Karl Benz. The year was 1886. Elsewhere, Mr. Rolls had yet to meet Mr. Royce. And Henry Ford's amazing Model T was still 22 years off.

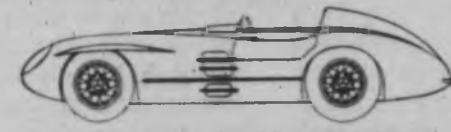

No squeak, clank or groan

A car's backbone is its body. The 230S body is a taut shell, welded 10,000 times. It is stronger, more twist-resistant than separate body-and-frame types that must be bolted together. The 230S will not age to the tune of squeaks, groans or rattles.

Nitpickers: you'll search for telltale seams in vain. All outside body seams are hand-ground, filled with pewter, ground again and polished.

Sturdy as it is, the 230S is no mere iron horse. You can hurtle this 2,976-pound sedan about like a sports car. No wonder—you ride on a fully-independent suspension system first proved on a sports-racing car—the all-conquering Mercedes-Benz 300SLR.

Professional racing drivers respect Mercedes-Benz cars (some even sell them. Juan Manuel Suspension proved on 300SLR sports-racing car.

Fangio, 5-time World Champion driver, is a Mercedes-Benz dealer in Buenos Aires).

Steering without guesswork

You control the 230S—it doesn't control you. If you've been driving a car with spongy steering, you'll be astonished at the accuracy of Mercedes-Benz steering. You aim this car. You don't have to cajole it.

Note: A shock absorber in the steering linkage blots up road jolts before they can reach your hands on the wheel. No buzzing, tickly vibrations.

Stops without panic

The 230S uses disc brakes in front—and separate brake systems, front and rear. A trustworthy combination. And remarkably smooth: "When you put the brakes on in a Mercedes-Benz, it still feels like you're putting the brakes on in an automobile—not turning a switch that's going to throw you out the windshield."—David E. Davis Jr., Editor and Publisher, Car & Driver Magazine.

An unburstable engine

When you lift the hood of the 230S, you may be startled. Its 6-cylinder, single overhead camshaft engine is one-third the size of many American V8's. Your gas costs will be about half. And its performance stuns those who always thought an engine had to be big to be potent. Consider this: manufacturing tolerances are so close, and design is so careful, that you can blaze along for hours on end at over 90 mph. You hear only a pleasant hum. There is no unnerving mechanical strain to set your back-teeth on edge.

Not a rolling hotel

Coming as it does from a factory where one of every 11 workers is an inspector, the 230S displays superb workmanship. But superfluous gew-gaws are utterly absent. No fold-down writing tables. No walnut wainscoting. A blow to status-seekers—but a boon in cutting needless weight and cost.

Fatigue-proof seats have reclining backrests.

Orthopedic physicians helped make the 230S' seats fatigue-proof by making them firm. They are also tuned to the car's suspension motions—eliminating millions of tiny jarring and pitching movements that bring on discomfort.

Suggestion:—try these seats immediately after sitting in a large domestic car. They're ample and snug. You don't feel like you're sitting in a box of marshmallows. And the individual front seat backrests recline to 4 positions.

The 230S measures decidedly shorter bumper-to-bumper than full-sized American cars. But inside, it actually gives you more room than many. The result of designing a car around its occupants instead of to a stylist's orders.

A word on safety

To Mercedes-Benz, safety is more than token gestures. It is bred into the car's basic design. Example: the body of the 230S is a patented safety feature. Front and rear sections are designed to collapse on hard impact, absorbing shock before it can reach the passenger area. Inside, door handles are recessed. Twelve danger spots—including the window cranks—are safety padded. Small wonder that safety experts term Mercedes-Benz cars "the safest in the world."

OTTAWA — A full military service is being held for Air Commodore A. Gordon Corbet, who has died at 59.

TORONTO — Nagib Kadri, 21, of Detroit, arrested in Calgary, has waived extradition proceedings when he appeared in court. He is to be extradited to the U.S. immediately. He faces a murder charge in the death of his estranged wife's 18-year-old baby-sitter, Julie Pavanara, in his wife's home in Detroit.

STRATFORD, Ont. — Floyd S. Chalmers, president of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co., has been elected president of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Foundation.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — CNR President Donald Gordon says labor troubles on the railways cast a cloud across the economic horizon of 1966.

LEWES, England — A 59-year-old man who murdered a woman on the day he was to have married her has been sentenced to life imprisonment. John J. Coker admitted stabbing to death Mrs. Christopher Griffiths, a 47-year-old widow, in a basement apartment in Brighton.

BOSTON — Former presidential aide Theodore Suran was called for admission of Communist China to the United Nations. He said the U.S. "cannot talk disarmament without including China, with her ability to explode nuclear weapons."

MONTREAL — Montreal lawyer Myer Gross, representing New York State in the extradition case of Joel Singer, says he will probably lay "a second charge against Singer — that of grand larceny." Singer, 22, of Montreal, was arrested by Montreal police in connection with the burglary of the Brinks Bank in Syracuse, N.Y.

LONDON — Daniel Macmillan, brother of former prime minister Harold Macmillan and long connected with the family publishing business, has died at his London home at 79.

HALIFAX — Abraham Samuel Miles, former captain of the famous Nova Scotia fishing racing schooner Bluenose, died in hospital here at 88.

NICOSIA, Cyprus — A British woman was shot and seriously wounded while driving through a Turkish-Cypriot village in western Cyprus. Mrs. C. E. Ball was hit in the stomach by three bullets from a barrage of automatic fire which ripped through the car. Her husband and two children, aged 5 and 7, escaped injury.

VATICAN CITY — A Maronite priest who lived for many years as a humble hermit in the mountains of Lebanon has been beatified in pageantry and splendor at St. Peter's Basilica. The newly beatified priest was Rev. Charbel Makhlouf, who died in 1938.

Defence Claims Crown Witness 'Scared'

A Burnaby lawyer defending an Edmonton man charged with theft of $1,101 a tid in magistrate's court Monday that statements by the crown's only witness were made "under the lively apprehension that he himself was to be charged."

Lawyer Sifton Levine made the statement defending Peter Kozak, charged with the eye-for-an-eye theft of the money while he was manager of an A and W drive-in restaurant here.

He said the witness, James Hollywood, assistant manager of the restaurant under Kozak, "had sole control" over the bookkeeping system at times and "had ample opportunity to take the money himself."

"DANGEROUS"

"It would have been easy for Hollywood to make off with the money unbeknownst to Mr. Kozak," he said.

"While the court can convict on the evidence of an accomplice, it is generally regarded as a very dangerous practice."

Prosecutor John McElroy told Magistrate J. A. Byers the Crown's case "is built entirely on the evidence of Hollywood," whom he described as an "honest and somewhat naive young man."

"NOT HIDDEN"

The Crown produced a bundle of order-toucher slips, found in Hollywood's room, to "show money was taken."

"No attempt was made to conceal the slips," by Hollywood, Mr. McElroy said.

However, Mr. Levine pointed out after the Crown summation that testimony had been entered saying the slips were packed stashed under a suit in a packed suitcase.

"It is open to the court to find that, just perhaps, there was some attempt to conceal," Magistrate Byers ordered a transcript of Hollywood's testimony and adjourned the case for judgement Dec. 14.

Magistrate William Oatler "strongly" suggested that Dockyard fitter Malcolm MacKinnon stay away from a woman who charged him with common assault Nov. 15.

Magistrate Oatler dismissed the charge laid by Mrs. Ann Amyott who testified that MacKinnon had suddenly "jumped up, banged his fist on the table, thrown her to the floor then back into a chair and rained open-handed blows on her face and arms."

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Jack Gatehouse, Mrs. Amyott said she had received no bruises and required no medical attention.

She testified she and the accused had known each other about a year and had been intimate "very often."

She said the accused had had "five or six beers."

MacKinnon told the court he and Mrs. Amyott had had one beer together while they discussed his moving in to live with her "at her request."

He said he knew of nothing unusual until a policeman asked him to leave the house next morning. The charge was not laid until three days later.

A second charge arising out of the incident, causing wilful damage, will be heard Dec. 13.

Guiseppi Iannidivardo of Duncan was sentenced to 14 days after he pleaded guilty to vagrancy.

Iannidivardo told police who arrested him he was an immigrant who had entered Canada illegally by jumping a Greek

Four Children Gone; Found in Vancouver

MONTREAL (CP) — Four Montreal children who disappeared from their parents' home here in August have been found in Vancouver, the Montreal Police Missing Persons Bureau said Monday.

A spokesman for the bureau said Mary Balent, 15, her brother Andre, 13, and sisters Milcha, 14, and Draga, 9, were reported missing last Aug. 30 from their east-end home.

He said welfare court officials have learned that the youngsters are living in the West Coast city where Mary has a job as a nurse's aide in a hospital and is also working as a part-time charwoman. He said that some of the other children were working at part-time jobs.

ACTING MOTHER

Out of their $250-a-month total earnings, Mary rented a $30 flat and is acting as "mother" to the three younger children, the spokesman said.

They had been under the eye of the Vancouver Children's Aid Society for some time and were reported apparently to be a model little family.

The society said the children were well nourished and well

Pyramid Found In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Mexican anthropologists have begun uncovering a pyramid 80 miles east of here which may prove to be the largest in the Western Hemisphere, the National Institute of Anthropology announced.

On hearing the record, Magistrate Oatler passed sentence and withdrew an earlier order for pre-sentence report.

Sailor George Guy Hubal, IMCS Mackenzie, ignored an earlier warning from police about trespassing at 633 Admirals and now has a conviction for prowling by night.

He was charged after being seen on the porch of the house at 4:50 a.m. Sunday. He ran away but was later arrested.

He denied knowing anyone at the address.

He was remanded one week for pre-sentence report.

Evelyn Joan Young bit, kicked and kneed policemen who arrested her at 5 a.m. Sunday on Trans-Canada Highway, police told the court.

She pleaded guilty to impaired driving, assaulting a policeman and driving without a license.

Magistrate Oatler remanded her one week for pre-sentence report.

Constable Bruce Macdonald testified the woman also tried to get his revolver out of its holster, had to be placed in a cell by force, and used "unladylike language."

Her car had crossed the highway and ditch and crashed into a rock cut, court was told.

RCs Eye Pill At Symposium

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Discussion of a new medication, aimed at making the rhythm system of birth control more accurate, brought conservative but hopeful reaction Saturday from theologians, physicians and priests at an international symposium sponsored by the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

MORE ACCURATE

The experimental drug called clomiphene citrate is not a contraceptive but causes ovulation in women to occur at the same time every month. Thus the rhythm method, which requires abstinence between man and wife during the 12-day ovulation period, can be more accurately followed. The Roman Catholic Church does not oppose the rhythm method but forbids use of contraceptives.

NO MORAL ISSUE

Representatives of the Catholic Church at the symposium agreed that if the chemical is found to be both safe and effective, there will be no moral question involved in its use.

Rev. Magr. John C. Knott said there is no moral issue involved except that the pill be pronounced safe. Magr. Knott is director of the family life bureau, National Catholic Welfare Conference, a sponsor of the symposium.

The other sponsor is the National Federation of Catholic Physicians' Guilds.

Leafs Get Their Cushion For The Rough Ride Ahead

Victoria Maple Leafs are perched firmly atop the Western Hockey League, six points in front of the second-place Portland Buckaroos and 13 ahead of the third-place Vancouver Canucks with two games in hand on Portland and one on Vancouver, but all it may mean is that the Leafs have taken full advantage of a good starting schedule.

"The league is tightening up," says manager Buck Houle, "and we had to get a cushion when we had the chance."

FUTURE EDGE — Houle was referring to the fact that the Leafs have played 12 of their 21 games on home ice while Portland and Vancouver, who have to be rated solid threats, have played 13 of 23 and 14 of 22, respectively, away from home.

The Leafs, who have won nine of their last 10 games, extended their latest win streak to three games in Seattle Sunday by edging the Totems, 3-2, in a hard-fought game.

The Victorians can now rest on their laurels until Saturday, when they try to extend their unbeaten streak at Memorial Arena to 13 games against some rough customers from the AHL — the Hershey Bears.

Then things start to get a bit tougher. The Leafs are scheduled for eight more games this month and will play 14 times in January. Included in that list are five games each with the Buckaroos and San Francisco Seals and four with the Canucks.

The John Seaver-Lou Jankowski-Gordie Redahl line once again proved to be tough to handle for the Totems.

Seaver opened the scoring midway through the first period on a play with his linemates and Jankowski, who scored something like 13 or 14 times against the Totems last season, got his fourth this season in the second period.

Next Season Last For Rocks? Club Battle Now For Survival

By JIM TAYLOR

When Victoria Shamrocks hold their general meeting in January, the main item on the agenda will be survival.

The Shamrocks are in trouble—player trouble and financial trouble. With luck they could solve the player problem, but only a complete change of heart on the part of the Inter-City Lacrosse League will lick the problem of finances.

As things stand now, the Shamrocks will probably be back next season, in some form or another. But could they stand another year like they had in 1965, in which they finished last and averaged only 1,050 fans in their 15 home games?

"I doubt it," says president Russ Morgan. "Some adjustments were made last year, but we won't know how much we'll get out of the league until we see its books. And even then we know the equalization system isn't good enough."

Each trip to the mainland costs the Shamrocks $300, for a total of $4,500. Mainland teams pay approximately $1,500 each.

It was this same financial nut, incidentally, that drove Nanaimo out of the league last year. Nanaimo's costs were even higher, since a bus had to be chartered to and from Victoria in order to make plane connections.

UNWANTED? There is suspicion in some quarters that the mainland teams aren't too concerned with having a team on the Island. Success of the new Coquitlam Adanacs entry last year led to new rumors of a four-team mainland league, and now comes word that the four teams in Richmond will apply for a franchise in 1966.

League commissioner Tommy Gordon denies it. But even if it isn't true, and the league does want the Shamrocks, it will almost certainly have to pay to keep them. And given the same ultimatum by Nanaimo last year, it allowed the up-island team to fold.

Unfortunately, there is still the matter of players. Last season's experiment of bringing in players from outside Victoria was a dismal failure, because they could not practice with the club. Only residents will be used next season.

GAPS TO FILL. Normal Dillon, the club's outstanding young rookie, is seeking his release. He wants to play junior lacrosse on the mainland. His brother, Ranjit, the junior scoring champ, says he will go with the senior Rocks, but there aren't more than three juniors ready to step up and fill the senior gaps.

And there will be gaps. Goalkeeper Skip Chapman is said to be eyeing Coquitlam; Billy Gray is considering a trip to Europe; other like Jack Showers and Ed Kowalsky are supposedly retiring. And these were the mainstays of a club that finished last.

Coach Jim McNeill chooses to be optimistic. "Everybody quits at the end of a season," he says. "But they all come back."

Even assuming everyone did, the club would have holes to fill, and here again the rumors start. One has Jack Bionda coming back, and isn't he always? Bionda didn't play last year and is a free agent, but he would possibly want a player-coach position, and he doesn't come cheaply.

First, however, that financial problem has to be licked. The club may try for a complete sponsorship, giving up the Shamrock name again, or it may rely on another pitch for a better deal from the league.

Unless something gives, the team a year to live—at most.

Sellout Already Assured For Russia-Canada Test

Tickets for the Dec. 20 hockey game between the Russian and Canadian national hockey teams went on sale at 9 a.m. yesterday, and by 5:30 there were only about 400 left.

"We sold about 4,000," Memorial Arena manager Jack Morgan said. "That's about the fastest sale we've ever had. And when you consider that most of the Victoria Maple Leafs season ticket holders haven't claimed their seats yet, I'd estimate there are no more than 400 sets left. And they'll almost certainly be taken Tuesday."

Seating capacity at the arena is 5,033.

Speaking Briefly

Difference of Opinion

Coach Anatoli Tarasov of the Russian national hockey club and his ace forward, Alexander Almetov, have different opinions on which club poses the greatest threat to Russian "amateur" hockey supremacy.

Almetov thinks that the biggest danger is posed by Czechoslovakia, second-place finisher behind the Russians in the 1965 world championships but his coach doesn't agree.

"Canada remains as strong a threat as ever," Tarasov says. "We are fully aware that the Canadians have to be reckoned with at all times and surprises can be expected from them at any moment."

First step in answering the problem will be taken Friday night in London, when the Russians play the Canadian national team in the first of six meetings in the next three weeks.

The teams meet again in Quebec City on Dec. 12, in Winnipeg on Dec. 17, in Victoria on Dec. 20, in Winnipeg, again, on Dec. 23 and, finally, in Colorado Springs, Colo., on Dec. 28 in the annual invitational tournament which will also feature the Czech and Swedish teams.

Chicago Bears, who could now be the best club in the National Football League, kept their championship hopes alive Sunday and may just have wrecked matters for Baltimore Colts, who seemed to have the Western Conference championship all but wrapped up a week ago.

Let by their two rookie sensations in a rough-house game, the Bears not only blanked the Colts, 13-0, but put quarterback Johnny Unitas out for the season. It was the Bears' eighth win in nine games after starting the season with three losses.

KNEE WRECKED
The 32-year-old Unitas suffered a torn knee ligament in the second quarter when 500 pounds of Chicago tackles, Stan Jones and Earl Leggett, combined for a high-low tackle.

Unitas was operated on Sunday night and there is little likelihood that he will be ready to play even should the Colts qualify for the championship game on Jan. 2.

Impressive Injury List Alarms League Officials

NEW YORK (AP)—The list of maimed and wounded quarterbacks in the National Football League continues to grow at an alarming rate with Johnny Unitas the last to be counted out for the season.

Bill Munson of Los Angeles Rams also underwent an operation that finished him for the year after the Nov. 21 game at San Francisco.

Bill Nelson of Pittsburgh Steelers is playing on a wobbly knee that will require an operation after the season. He insists on playing the rest of the way although he can't run and was smeared seven times Sunday by New York Giants.

ALMOST ALL
Charley Johnson of St. Louis is doing his best despite a shoulder injury that has reduced his effectiveness. John Brodie of San Francisco has come back after suffering a shoulder separation.

Bart Starr of Green Bay jammed his hand Sunday and had suffered earlier. Norm Sneed of Philadelphia missed games because of injuries and Frank Ryan of Cleveland was sub par for a few weeks because of an injured foot.

Mark Duncan, supervisor of NFL officials, and other league officials are concerned about Rookie Gayle Sayers scored the only Chicago touchdown on a 61-yard run in the first quarter and Roger Leach, who kicked the convert, made good on field-goals in the second and third quarters.

Oakland Raiders kept their mathematical chance to win the Western Division championship on Sunday by defeating Denver Broncos, 24-13, in an American Football League game played before 19,622 Oakland fans.

In Sunday's other game, Pete Gogolak set a club record by kicking five field goals to lead Buffalo Bills, already assured of the Eastern Division championship, to a 29-18 conquest of Houston Oilers.

TIES RECORD
In other action Sunday, Cleveland fullback Jim Brown tied a league record by scoring his 20th touchdown of the season and also brought his running yardage for the season to 1,450 by carrying for 141 yards.

CHINOOKS ON TOP UNTIL NEXT YEAR
It left Chinooks with a four-point lead over UBC Jayvees, who hold two games in hand. The league takes a holiday break until Jan. 5, and in the New Year all three of Chinooks' remaining games — against Kilmory, UBC and CYO Saints — will be played in Victoria.

Ranger Slump Brings Change Francis Becomes New Coach

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers' seeking to cut short the tailspin that has sent them crashing into fifth place in the National Hockey League dismissed coach Red Sullivan Monday. He was replaced by general manager Emile (Cat) Francis.

"We could be in deep trouble if we don't pull ourselves out of this slump soon," said Francis, who will serve in a dual capacity, Rangers, after a fast start that brought them close to the upper echelon of the six-team circuit, have won only one of their last 10 and two of their last 14 games. Their record is 5-10-5.

NEW JOB
Sullivan, who replaced Muzz Patrick as coach in December 1962, will remain with the club as coordinator of player personnel and scouting.

"I'm certainly pleased that Red will be staying on with the organization," Francis said. "He'll be scouting in all the pro leagues, and will be working closely with our own farm system and scouts."

Francis, 39, added that no one else was considered as Sullivan's replacement. "You have to have a man who knows our material," he explained.

"Another man outside our organization would have to take time to learn the material and time is important right now. That's why I named myself the coach."

WIDE OPEN RACE
"It's still a wide open race for the playoffs. Montreal and Chicago look like the best clubs, but no one can tell now who will finish third, fourth, fifth or sixth," Detroit is currently in third place followed by Toronto, New York and Boston.

Francis, who took over as general manager a year ago, has had only limited coaching experience, piloting Guelph of the Ontario Hockey Association.

a Ranger Junior A farm team, in 1960-61 and 1961-62.

Two others in the NHL hold both general managing and coaching positions. They are Punch Imlach of Toronto and Sid Abel of Detroit.

Francis said he has not thought about player changes although he said he will discuss possible personnel revisions soon with defencemen Harry Howell and forward Don Marshall, the assistant coaches.

Billy Hicke, a right winger, will join the team in Detroit for Thursday night's game. Hicke, recently sidelined with pneumonia, has been playing for Minnesota of the Central League.

The Rangers have finished fifth in each of the past three seasons and have qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs only once in the last seven years.

Milestone Score Was a Millstone

It doesn't seem as if it should make any difference but Detroit Red Wings have been a different club since Gordie Howe scored his 600th goal in Montreal on Nov. 27.

The defending National Hockey League champions won once and tied once in the five games which Howe was stymied but which have been impressively unbeatable since their ice leader reached his latest milestone.

Four victories in eight nights followed, the latest coming at home on Sunday, when the Wings whipped Toronto Maple Leafs for the second time in as many nights, this time by 5-1.

It gave the Wings, who have scored only 29 goals in their first 15 games, 25 goals in their four-game streak.

Howe was in on six of them scoring three and setting up three. Two of his goals came 18 seconds apart in the second period on Sunday to turn a 2-1 game into a rout for the Wings.

Chicago Black Hawks, on a rampage of their own, made it seven in a row and six wins in seven games by picking on New York Rangers, 6-2.

Alaska City New Rival For Victoria

A challenger to Victoria's bid for the 1967 Babe Ruth League world series has made a pitch to Babe Ruth Inc., but Victoria is still the No. 1 contender.

Fairbanks, Alaska, has applied for the 1967 series and Dick Case, executive vice-president of Babe Ruth Inc., will visit Fairbanks soon to check facilities.

However the Victoria bid is still considered almost certain to be accepted. Final word will be given before Jan. 28.

Mikita On Top

Stan Mikita is again the man to beat for the National Hockey League scoring championship.

Off to a slow start this season as teammate Bobby Hull broke out with a rash of goals, the 25-year-old centre grabbed the lead over the weekend by scoring six goals and getting credit for an assist.

HULL NEXT
The splurge gave Mikita, who has won individual point honors for the past two seasons, 23 points. That's one more than Hull, who had two goals and two assists in the weekend routs of Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, and Montreal's Bob Rousseau.

Mikita is second to Hull's 17 with his 14 goals and his 15 assists, leaves him just one behind Rousseau and Jean Beliveau.

Dough Mohr and Phil Esposito of the Hawks, Norm Ullman of Detroit and Beliveau each had four-point weekends while Gordie Howe of Detroit moved up with three goals and two assists.

Gambling Grabs Fifth Spot In UK Economy

LONDON (AP) — Gambling now is the fifth largest industry in Britain, with an annual turnover of more than £1,000,000,000 ($2,000,000,000), a member of a New York survey team reported Monday.

New York consultant Samuel Rottman, representing the state's elite harness race tracks, and Henry D. Paley, who made a similar study of legalized betting in Britain two years ago for Joseph F. Carling, New York state Assembly Speaker, were seeking information relative to a proposed law which would establish state-run, off-track betting shops in New York state.

Greek Clerks Walk Off Jobs

ATHENS (Reuters) — About 2,000 clerks of the Athens stock hall went on a 48-hour strike Monday in protest against a bill which seeks to regulate wage increases and pension rights of municipal workers.

Elderly Woman Dies After Mishap

An elderly woman was killed, and her son-in-law injured when a car struck them as they crossed a street after leaving church Sunday night.

Mrs. Annie Bradley, 76, of Belfast, Northern Ireland, died 3½ hours after she and her son-in-law, R. N. Grubb, 1866 St. Ann, were struck by a car driven by Barrie Neft, 23, of 551 View Royal.

Mr. Grubb is in satisfactory condition.

A pause to console friends saved Mrs. Grubb from possible injury in the accident.

Mrs. Grubb, her husband, and Mrs. Bradley had just left the Open Brethren Church on Pandora and were about to cross the road, when Mrs. Grubb met some friends who were recently bereaved.

She paused to console them, her husband and her mother stepped out into the road and were struck down.

Mrs. Bradley is survived by six children, including Mrs. Grubb, and another daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Higgs, of Victoria.

An inquest will be held later this week.

Fifty minutes' work Sunday netted burglars $1,500 in a break-in at Oak Bay Drug Store, 2200 Oak Bay Avenue.

The burglars broke into the store by a rear door, then carried a small safe from an upstairs room to the basement.

They drilled around the lock to force the safe door open, and pocketed $1,500.

Ratepayers Approve

Acceptance of Saanich's main capital budget referendum totalling $2,450,000 was recommended Monday by the executive of the Cadboro Ratepayers' Association.

"Although none of the lands and works budgeted for are in this district," said association president J. C. Cox, "we believe our council and municipal staffs have used sound and responsible judgment in allocating top priority to these items."

The association also urged council "to make every effort to obtain provincial government financial aid for the McKenzie Avenue project as a secondary highway."

Reeve Allan Cox will represent Oak Bay on the Capital Regional Parks District Board, municipal council decided Monday.

An all-candidates meeting sponsored by the Esquimalt section of the Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria will be held in Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Candidates for reeve and council will speak at the meeting and the Esquimalt representative on the school board will speak on the school building referendum.

Victoria Seventh Day Adventists will carol and collect money for welfare work in Oak Bay from 6 to 9:30 p.m., from Dec. 12 to 19.

Accident patients treated at the emergency department of Royal Jubilee Hospital during November were fewer than during the previous month.

Man Shoots His Wife, Kills Self

NANAIMO — A 65-year-old father in failing health asked his daughter's forgiveness before he shot her mother and committed suicide.

Police here believe that the shooting deaths Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Thomson was a murder-suicide.

RCMP found Carey Thomson slumped in a chair at his Hammond Bay Road home holding a nine-millimetre semi-automatic revolver in his hand.

WHILE ASLEEP

Investigators said they believe he shot his wife Marjorie, who was about the same age, while she was asleep.

RCMP here were called to the scene to investigate what was at first believed to be a routine prowler complaint.

MADE CALL

Apparently Thomson, service manager at G. A. Fletcher Music Co. Ltd., on Commercial Street, called serviceman Joe Thompson at 8:15 a.m.

Thomson said he would be late for work because there was a prowler near his home, and he asked Joe Thompson to call the police.

SECOND GUN

Mrs. Thomson was killed with a .38 calibre revolver. A second shot was fired from this weapon, but the bullet lodged in the barrel. It is then believed Thomson picked up the second revolver to use on himself.

Both man and wife were shot through the head.

LEFT NOTE
Thomson left a note for his daughter asking forgiveness for his action. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thomson had been in poor health for some time.

Nanaimo Coroner Russ Inkster said he will not call an inquest on the double fatality.

Six Oil Firms Settle

Union Near Agreement With BA, Geddes Says

VANCOUVER (CP)—The oil workers union late Monday night announced settlement of its dispute with six major oil companies and expressed hopes of reaching agreement with the seventh, British American Oil Company.

Fred Geddes, president of Local 9801 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCA), said a three-hour membership meeting approved the signing of individual contracts with Imperial, Standard, Shell, Texaco, Home and Pacific Petroleum.

He said the new contracts would serve as models for the industry across Canada.

The new contracts would contain an addendum covering the main point in the union's dispute—job security in the face of the automation age—a point which at one time threatened to precipitate a general 48-hour work stoppage across the province.

Mr. Geddes said the job security and other issues still remain to be resolved with B.A., the first company struck by the union following a government-supervised strike vote taken three months ago. The union also later struck an Imperial-controlled plant.

He was hopeful the issue with B.A. would be resolved in talks today.

There was no immediate reaction from the companies. But a union spokesman said they indicated during negotiations, they would go along with any agreement worked out with Imperial Oil, with whom the final settlement was drafted.

While Mr. Geddes was confident the other companies would accept the proposal, he warned the union would strike tonight if they did not.

It is anticipated that the Independent Oil Workers union, which struck the R-A refinery at Port Moody when the OCAUW struck other B.A. operations, will accept the same terms of settlement.

Jet Hurdles Astray: Was Pilot Dead?

OSLO (UPI) — An unidentified F-104 jet fighter, presumed to have come from West Germany, flew more than 1,200 miles over Norwegian territory Monday with its pilot unconscious and possibly dead at the controls, a Norwegian Air Force spokesman said.

Efforts by Norwegian air force bases to establish radio contact with the fighter, which continued north at 40,000 feet altitude, were unsuccessful.

The fighter disappeared into polar darkness near Narvik. A search of the mountain district was underway.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that the improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction of your money refunded.

Bi and Bi Commission Told

Western French
Want University

EDMONTON (CP) — Western Canadian educationalists and French-speaking groups appealed Monday for more- and better programmed-teaching of second languages at all levels of education.

Submissions to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism included calls for a French University in western Canada and a co-ordinated national system of second-language instruction.

EXTEND BROADCASTING
Appeals also were made for extension of French broadcasting in the West, federal aid for exchanges of French-speaking teachers and gradual expansion of bilingualism in the federal civil service.

The French-Canadian Federation of Western Canada said a French university in the West is the "unanimous wish" of the French-Canadian associations of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Romeo Paquette, president of the B.C. association, said such a university would ensure that French-speaking westerners "contribute thoroughly to the culture of Canada."

Cheque

Transit System
Knocks Scent

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Niagara frontier transit system has turned its nose up at a proposal it perfume bus exhausts to reduce noxious fumes. The proposal to sweeten the smell of the system's 500 diesel-engined buses "would just substitute one odor for another," William W. Kunz, vice-president in charge of maintenance for the company, said.

Inserted by Mooney for Mayor Committee

The federation, representing about 5,000 members, called for more French broadcasting to help the estimated 105,000 French-speaking Canadians in the West stave off cultural assimilation.

About 85,000 Albertans are of French extraction and about half are listed as French-speaking.

B. J. Gagnon, manager of the French-language radio station CHFA in Edmonton, said French stations in the West find French CBC programs concentrate on Quebec.

The general faculty council of the University of Alberta appealed for increased French broadcasts and criticized lack of co-ordination in second-language teaching.

'OUT OF STEP'

The council said students moving from province to province find themselves out of step. "What teachers lack now is a guide. Every school which wants to introduce French does so on its own."

Professor B. E. Walker of the University of Alberta said the council would support a system of provincial co-ordinators of second-language instruction. Such a position was created in Alberta in July.

EXCHANGES URGED

Professor Walker urged federal aid for teacher exchanges, expansion of bilingualism in the civil service and more federal aid for teaching second languages.

The Bilingual Teachers Association of Alberta recommended that French-speaking pupils in Alberta be taught in French half the time and in English the other half.

HITS QUEBEC

In Regina, a French-speaking westerner criticized those who want Quebec to become a unilingual province with French its only official language.

Rev. Jean Papien, spokesman for the French-Canadian Cultural Association of Saskatchewan, told the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism such a move would be unfortunate.

Father Papien said French-speaking western minorities are in the same position as English-speaking minorities in Quebec.

If the rights of English-speaking people in Quebec aren't protected, French-speaking people in the West will have a much more difficult time protecting their language and culture.

Stadium To Seat 20,000

Planners envision a Greater Victoria Canadian Centennial stadium ultimately capable of seating 20,000 people, a committee of celebration organizers was told Monday.

The structure will likely rise on the Gordon Head campus of the University of Victoria.

A planning committee is thinking of a cantilevered grandstand which can seat 3,000, capable of expansion to seat 10,000, said Cecil Wyatt, secretary of the Greater Victoria Canadian Confederation Centennial Society.

He spoke at Monday's meeting of the group, which is a sub-committee of the inter-municipal centennial committee.

Another 10,000.

Blanchers may eventually seat another 10,000 people, said Mr. Wyatt.

Municipal councils have yet to give formal approval to the stadium project. Major question to be settled is the sharing of its facilities between community and university athletes.

Impressions Of China

Impressions of China will be given to a Victoria audience at the Century Inn at 8 p.m. today.

Mrs. Norma McDonald, who recently visited mainland China, will speak on the subject to a public meeting.

The lecture is given in support to OXFAM, Oxford Committee for Famine Relief.

They were intrigued by the construction of the native huts, built for the most part of elephant dung.

The two also found tramping the jungle an exciting experience.

While in Ceylon he tried out

jackaroos — Australian cowboys — for the hunt," he said.

The hunt, he explained, was carried out from the back of a pickup truck at night, and the hunters were armed with .22-calibre rifles and a powerful spotlight.

"From our point of view, it was kind of sad because we were not partial to pitamping," he said. "But they considered it was okay because they were getting rid of pests."

The three split up in Sydney when Grant Hobbs decided to remain while the other two went to Ceylon.

'Deep Thought to Future'

Gleaming New Centre Lauded by Speakers

The new municipal administration centre at Vernon Avenue has a message for Saanich residents, says Esquimalt - Saanich MP George Chatterton.

He told council at its first meeting Monday, in the new council chamber, that the administration buildings at Swan Lake show how much orderly development of a municipality can add to the convenience of the people.

SERVICES CENTRALIZED

With the opening of the municipal hall last Wednesday, all Saanich administration is now done from one location.

Mr. Chatterton took the chair from Reeve Hugh Curtis for a brief period during the special meeting.

He said it was very gratifying to know he had played a small part in selection of the building site.

FORMER REEVE

He was reeve of Saanich from 1958 until 1961.

"The new hall tends to indicate to the people of the municipality that council has given deep thought to the future of Saanich," he said.

The opening prayer and dedication of the chamber was given by Monsignor M. T. O'Connell of St. Joseph's Parish.

ALSO PAY TRIBUTE

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton and Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, both of whom had long association with Saanich as legal advisors, were special guests.

Mr. Justice Wootton paid tribute to the location of the building, and said it will be a place of great attraction when the landscaping is completed.

"The site was chosen with the greatest wisdom," he said.

Judge Drake said it was a typically Saanich effort.

CROWDED CONDITIONS

He recalled the time he shared a small desk in the ante room of the ladies' washroom in the old municipal hall at Royal Oak.

Among former Saanich reeves who attended the meeting were A. G. Lambrie, E. C. Warren, and serving councillor Leslie Passmore.

FATIENCE, BOYS

Among the resolutions of appreciation passed at the meeting was one directed to the press for "patience and fair reporting."

Council also last night appointed Coun. Harold Todd and Edward Lum as Saanich members to the capital region parks district board.

Seal Campaign Speeds Along

The Christmas Seal campaign against chest disease is apparently going stronger than it did last year.

Mrs. J. U. Kimmitt, chairman of the campaign, said $17,661 has been collected, an improvement over last year's kitty.

This is about half of what can be expected for the drive.

Anyone who hasn't received Christmas Seals or wants more can pick them up at 1902A Fort or call EV 2-4422 to have some mailed.

At Sidney the vote will be held in the municipal hall, and in North Saanich at the parish hall, 1319 Mills Road.

In View Royal, the vote will be in View Royal Elementary School on Helmcken Road. Two polls in Langford will be at Millstream Elementary School on Hoy Lake Road and Elizabeth Fisher School. Metchison voters will vote in Metchison Elementary School, 611 Happy Valley Road.

The poll in Sooke has been split into two sections, with both sections to vote in Sooke Elementary School on Sooke Road. At Jordan River the vote will be in Jordan River Elementary School and in Port Renfrew at the Port Renfrew Elementary School.

Oak Bay council is studying details of a $450,000 private recreational development planned for an eight-acre site in Henderson Park.

The Racquet Club of Victoria plans to move from its present location to the site in Oak Bay, near Henderson and Cedar Hill Cross Road, presently owned by the municipality.

Cost of the land would be about $12,000 an acre. The club presented a brief on its plans to Oak Bay council Monday.

The club proposes to buy enough property to include a large number of grass tennis courts, new paved tennis courts, several badminton courts, at least two squash courts and a swimming pool.

Scouts to Sell Trees, Holly

Christmas trees and holly will be sold by Boy Scouts of Fourth Cedar Hill Troop from Saturday until Christmas Eve at two lots, Oakcrest market and on Quadra just south of Lakehill shopping centre.

London, and expects to remain for a while in England.

The young Mr. Foster decided he had enough wandering, and came home to Victoria Sunday.

"Europe is a fine place to see, but people around 45 or 50 years old appreciate it more than young people," he said.

"The older person has a finer sense of appreciation," he explained.

He expects to return to the University of Victoria for his fourth term in September.

'Canadianisms' Dictionary Nears Finish

By BILL STAVDAL

Dr. Harry Scargill is writing a book about Canada's herring-chokers, pea-soupers, sod-busters, remittance men and hurdy-gurdy girls, without mentioning them by name.

The book, which he hopes will become "a showcase of Canada," is his Dictionary of Canadianisms, scheduled for publication in 1967.

Sixteen Countries Visited

Victorian Mistaken for Pakistani Spy in India

By JIM BRAHAN

Being mistaken for a Pakistani spy, chewing betel with Ceylonese, sleeping in elephant-dung huts, are all in the travel memories of a young Victorian who has roamed the world for the past 16 months.

David Foster, 23, of 2021 Camarvon, left here in September, 1964, to attend the Olympics in Japan, little realizing that before returning he would see 16 different countries.

Among the countries he travelled were Japan, China, Australia, India, Ceylon, Kuwait, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Austria, Germany and England.

"I was a traveller, not a tourist," he said. "I worked when I could, and when I was broke I hitchhiked."

In Japan he met fellow Victorians Bruce Graham and Grant Hobbs, and they all decided to visit Australia.

The trio found work in Sydney on a bridge-building firm.

One of the highlights there was participating in a kangaroo hunt.

"We went with a couple of jackaroos — Australian cowboys — for the hunt," he said.

The hunt, he explained, was carried out from the back of a pickup truck at night, and the hunters were armed with .22-calibre rifles and a powerful spotlight.

"From our point of view, it was kind of sad because we were not partial to pitamping," he said. "But they considered it was okay because they were getting rid of pests."

The three split up in Sydney when Grant Hobbs decided to remain while the other two went to Ceylon.

Dr. Scargill

When settlers bring a language into a new land, he said, "existing words change to meet new conditions."

To find them, volunteer readers across Canada scan everything from journals of early travellers to their own daily newspapers. The dictionary, with about 12,000 entries, will have been boiled down from 500,000 notes.

TRANSPORTATION

It will tell the story of transportation: French - Canadian bateau, Red River cart, Bennett buggy (depression-era automobile pulled by a horse), and Beaver bush plane.

It reports dietary items like CPR strawberries (stewed prunes), and describes a fall fair.

"We hope our book will be a history book, a geography book, a sociology text, all in one," said Dr. Scargill.

When he looked for a Canadian dictionary he found there wasn't one. In 1954 the Canadian Linguistic Association, of which he is now president, initiated work on the dictionary of Canadianisms.

Mrs. C. H. Maber was 102 on Sunday. It was a joyful occasion for the most charming guest of honor who was surrounded by her family and friends on this day. Born in England, Mrs. Maber lives with her daughter, Mrs. Hilda Vantreight, Tyndall Avenue, Saanich. She has two sons and two daughters, four grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Maber enjoys wonderful health, and looks forward to going to town for Christmas shopping. One of her greatest pleasures is good music. — (Robin Clarke)

English Horseshoe For Luck

A lucky horseshoe, sent from England by her uncle, F. L. Holman, was carried by Beverly Ann Schwab when she became the bride of Alan Christopher Earnshaw in St. Alban's Anglican Church.

Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schwab, 3034 Doncaster Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Earnshaw, Yorkshire, England. Mr. Schwab gave his daughter in marriage.

Chrysanthemums and carnations in pink and white tones were on the altar, and the church was decorated with arrangements of yellow, white and pink carnations.

W. Hamilton was organist. The bride's gown of chiffon over organza was styled along empire lines, with a slight train. The lace bodice featured sleeves ending in lily points. A circular headpiece held her chapel-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. A pearl necklace and pearl earrings, her only jewelry, was a gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants were her sisters, maid of honor Miss Pamela Schwab and bridesmaid Miss Penny Schwab. They wore dresses of deep red velvet styled along empire lines. Headpieces of red velvet and netting were in their hair. They carried colonial bouquets of peppermint carnations. Jewelry was pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

Reverend Holgate was best man and Bruce McKay was usher.

At the reception in the Colonial Inn, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake topped with a heart-shaped arrangement of pink flowers, made by the bride's mother. E. C. Paulson proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon up-island, the new Mrs. Earnshaw chose a dark brown wool coat with racoon collar, matching hat and accessories. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

St. David's Guild Realizes $400

Centred by a gaily decorated tree, the hall of St. David's church-by-the-Sea, presented an attractive appearance to the parishioners and guests, attending the annual Christmas Bazaar, held under auspices of the Women's Guild. Proceeds amounted to $400.

The Vicar and Mrs. H. Gordon Walker with Mrs. A. P. Williams welcomed the guests. Introduced by the Guild President, Mrs. K. M. Lewis, Mrs. C. E. F. Wolff, of St. Luke's opened the fête. The home cooking stall was managed by Mrs. Hilda Walker, Mrs. D. C. Wilkinson, Mrs. B. Tanner and Mrs. Helen Dawson. Mrs. John S. McAlpine, assisted by Pamela Glover had a game for children.

The needlework and gift stall was in the charge of Mrs. A. L. Hays, Mrs. N. Life and Mrs. Eric Keddie. Superfluties were sold by Mr. F. Mutrie, assisted by Mrs. C. M. Fevang, Mrs. W. Ronald and Mrs. R. Udall. Mrs.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

On Friday, December 10, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will attend the annual Christmas reception of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the Officers' Mess.

Mrs. H. W. Windle of Bromley Place entertained yesterday at a coffee-and-birthday-cake party for Mrs. T. O'D. Walton whose birthday was Sunday. A beautiful cake decorated with sugar panes and roses was made for the occasion by Mrs. Trudy Barclay. Guests at the party included Mrs. Miriam Simpson, Mrs. Muriel Marquis, Mrs. Barclay, Mrs. Eric LeRoy, Mrs. Judy Musgrave and Mrs. M. Ingram.

Miss Pamela Deelman, a popular bride-elect, was the recipient of many lovely gifts when a miscellaneous shower was held in her honor by her attendants, Barbara Phipps, Carolyn Hill and Lois Orrick, at the home of the latter on Cedar Hill Road. The gifts were concealed in a novelty container, a replica of the B.C. Ferry "Queen of Saanich" of which the groom-elect Mr. Grant Craignyle is a staff member. Rose and heather corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. J. Deelman and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. M. Leheim. Other guests were Mrs. W. Putman, Mrs. C. Phipps, Mrs. S. Orrick and the Misses Ann Bailey, Lynn Chapman, Shirley McHarry, Carol Abbott, Wendy Clarke, Claudia Forber, Margaret Smith, Pauline Nunna, Denise Wilde, Lynne Connell, Susan Macey, Shelagh French and Marjorie MacPherson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chatterton are bursting with pride over the accomplishments of daughter Sharlie, 18, and son Peter 17. Both have been awarded the Nepean pin of merit, which means they have averages of over eighty per cent maintained over the last four years. Attending Nepean high school, Ottawa, both are in Grade 13, and were two out of nine who received the award. Both Sharlie and Peter went to school at Royal Oak until Grade nine. Mr. Chatterton, Conservative member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich states next year Peter will enter McGill to study medicine, and Sharlie goes to Queen's for Library Science.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I saw red when my eyes fell on the words, "The American husband is the most spoiled, pleasure-seeking parasite in the world."

I was married to a European for 10 years so I speak as an authority. The European husband would sooner be caught dead than with a dish towel in his hand. He feels it is beneath his dignity to carry out the garbage or empty an ash tray. It does not offend him, however, to sit in an easy chair with his shoes off and watch his wife haul large baskets of laundry up from the basement.

The European husband leaves his wife home a lot. I was never invited on a business trip although my husband's colleagues often took their wives. I was not permitted to join a bridge club because my husband said respectable women don't leave the house alone at night.

Ten years with that dingbat was like a life sentence. Now I am happily married to an American who treats me like a human being.—THUMBS DOWN ON EUROPEAN MEN

Dear Thumbs: I'm not disputing your word but I know of some American husbands who have the traits which you describe as European. I'd like to hear from other women who have (or have had) European husbands. What goes (or went) on at your house, girls?

Dear Ann Landers: Why do some members of the clergy feel free to call on members of their parish any old time and expect to be welcome as the flowers in spring?

Isn't it common courtesy to telephone and ask if a visit is convenient? Does a clergyman have a special licence to drive over whenever he feels like it and ring the door bell?

I've discussed this with three other women in our parish and they, too, resent these unannounced visits. If we are wrong, please tell us. Thank you.—JUST US.

Dear Just: No one has a right to drop in without first calling to see if it is convenient. I see no justification for a woman being trapped in her own home by a drop-in visitor when she is busy, unprepared, or perhaps dashing to another appointment.

Military Cutback Planned by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara Monday announced plans to close or reduce 149 U.S. military bases at home and abroad at an estimated annual saving of $140,000,000.

McNamara said that 126 domestic bases and 23 overseas bases were involved. The domestic bases, in 39 states and the District of Columbia, will be identified Wednesday. The foreign bases will be named after consultation with the other governments affected.

The action drew a quick warning from congress. Chairman L. Mendell Rivers, D-S.C., of the house armed services committee said the move was a calculated risk that "might prove very costly to the country."

TOO MUCH

Rivers said the Viet Nam war might take many directions, particularly if the Soviet Union or China should openly intervene.

"If we are going to err, let's err on the side of having too much rather than too little," Rivers said in a statement. "I am not at all sure the American people are willing to accept another large reduction in our defence posture."

RISK TOO GREAT

Rivers said he was sure the nation would rather keep military forces at their present level "than take a risk for the sake of economy."

But McNamara made the point that the closings and reductions "will be completed without decreasing military effectiveness or limiting our current and future activities in southeast Asia."

Nor, he said, was there any political significance or any effect on troop deployments in the list of overseas bases. He said they simply were no longer needed.

JOB ELIMINATED

McNamara said that more than 53,000 military and civilian jobs would be eliminated and an additional 29,000 military and civilian personnel would be relocated as a result of the closings.

All civilians affected will be offered other government jobs. Transportation and retraining expenses will be paid where necessary.

McNamara said the closings which affect bases employing more than 250 persons—as distinguished from reductions—would be "subject to congressional review."

New Oil Crisis Still Building

VANCOUVER (CP) — Differences over automation clauses kept contracts unsigned and a new crisis still building Monday in British Columbia's oil industry.

Fred Geddes, president of local 9-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCA), said contract negotiations are deadlocked over the refusal by six companies to write automation terms into their contracts.

He said the union wants the government's proposals, made to avert a general labor strike in B.C., written into contracts pending implementation of a labor-management committee on automation.

Mr. Geddes said all other contract issues are minor with the exception of a dispute with B-A over seniority changes proposed by the company.

But he said the six companies — British American, Imperial, Shell, Standard, Home and Texaco—have said they will only sign letters of intent on automations.

Mr. Geddes said all other contract issues are minor with the exception of a dispute with B-A over seniority changes proposed by the company.

He said talks probably would be held Monday afternoon and Tuesday as a deadline nears for extension of a strike against B-A and Imperial to the other companies.

Under provincial legislation the union must take strike action within 90 days of serving strike notices or lose the right to strike. The deadline is Tuesday midnight.

A meeting of union members was scheduled for tonight and Mr. Geddes said he expected union officers would be authorized to take such action as they see fit.

PERSONNEL

The provincial government recommendations, worked out weeks ago on the eve of a province-wide general strike, called for a committee on automation to deal with personnel problems arising from new machinery or work techniques.

Pending implementation of committee recommendations, the companies were to give six months notice of changes in machinery or working methods, participate in training or retraining of employees and provide severance pay to laid off workers.

Eight members received recognition of their yearling club achievements, and the five-member team received cheques from the PNE. Two boys were given awards for square dance competition.

Oil Embargo Asked On S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Malaysia called Monday for an oil embargo against South Africa while warning that if the United Nations does not act now against that republic, it would be condemned by history.

Speaking in the special political committee of the UN General Assembly, Radhakrishna Ramani, the Malaysian delegate, delivered one of the longest and sternest statements against Pretoria in the debate so far on apartheid (race separation).

"Petroleum products are the very life-blood of South Africa," Ramani said. "South Africa does not produce oil. It imports very nearly the whole of its requirements from abroad either as crude oil for its refineries or as a motor spirit. This is one obviously vulnerable aspect of the South African economy."

He also criticized Britain for continuing trade relations with South Africa.

Western Mines Set To Dig Park Oil

VANCOUVER (CP) — Western Mines Ltd. announced Monday it expects to bring its property in Strathcona Park on Vancouver Island into production in June and start shipping concentrates in July.

President H. M. Wright said at a meeting of shareholders here he has received assurances from the highways department a 20-mile road along Butte Lake from the mine to Western Landing will be completed by July.

The concentrates from the mine will be shipped along the road. $2,000,000 of the cost of which will be paid by the company.

COST IN MILLIONS

A Nanaimo company, A & B Construction, has been awarded the contract to build the mill for the mine that will have cost $11,000,000 to bring into production.

The company says the ore will be about 10 per cent zinc, one per cent lead, more than two per cent copper, and more than 2 ounces of silver per ton. There is also a trace of gold.

Mr. Wright said the company has doubled its reserves to 2,000,000 tons during the year and he saw no reason why they could not be doubled again. The present reserves were sufficient to keep the operation going for six to eight years.

750 TONS DAILY

Production would be up to 750 tons a day.

Charles M. Campbell, general manager, said it would be uneconomical to spend more money at present to prove up more ore.

Money would be best employed in preparing for production. Spending on Deepsea Loading Facilities for concentrates at Campbell River would be delayed.

Highway Ministers' Talks Top Secret

TORONTO (UPI) — The two-day meeting of Canada's 11 provincial highways ministers, which began Monday, is being kept so secret that the federal government has entered into two cost-sharing programs in recent years.

There are no federal observers at the conference. All 10 ministers read their briefs aloud Monday, according to a spokesman.

The contents of the briefs were not disclosed, but the ministers were reported "making good progress" in the meeting.

The spokesman said every province recognized the need for a national highway policy.

MacNaughton said when he announced the conference: "It is felt that the time has come for all levels of government to consider a meaningful, long-term policy that could bring about further development of highways transportation so that Canada can continue to expand and prosper."

NATIONAL PROGRAM
MacNaughton predicted before the meetings began that they would be successful and a national highways program would be drafted.

He said the individual views of the provinces would also be examined to isolate highway transportation needs of a purely local nature from those which have national significance.

MacNaughton said the steadily increasing volume of long-distance commercial and private highway travel had reached a level that made the national highways police a "mandatory consideration."

INCREASING STRAIN
"The highways systems that have been financed and built up by individual provinces are coming under increasing strain and their importance from a standpoint of national commerce and communication must be considered equal to our railways and waterways," MacNaughton said.

SWEDES TAKE THE AIR
Sweden had 599 light aircraft registered at the end of 1964, nearly 50 per cent more than in 1961.

Reduce Your Income Tax

You can cut taxes now on money you set aside for your retirement years, if you meet either of these two simple requirements:

- 1 You are not a member of a Registered Pension Plan;
- 2 You are a member of a Registered Pension Plan but your contribution is less than the maximum allowed for tax savings.

One other important thing. Your savings (in excess of any contributions to your employer's Registered Pension Plan) must be put into a "Registered Savings Plan"—the kind of plan you would buy from a life insurance company. And you must establish your Plan by March 1, 1966, for relief on your 1965 income tax.

If you are not a member of a Registered Pension Plan, the maximum allowed for tax savings is 20% of your earned income or $2,500, whichever is less. If you are a member, the maximum allowed for your combined savings under both the Registered Pension Plan and Registered Savings Plan is 20% or $1,500, whichever is less.

Why is a Manufacturers Life Plan the best way?

Because there's no guessing about the basic amount of money you'll accumulate or the basic lifetime income it will purchase when you retire. You have these figures in writing in your contract when you buy.

Moreover, you may purchase a participating contract and receive dividends in addition to the basic guaranteed benefits.

On Hospitals

'Yes' Vote Urged

George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, has urged the public to vote in favor of a regional hospital district for Greater Victoria.

"During the past five years more than 125,000 patients have been admitted to our hospitals in the Victoria area," he said.

"If these patients are appreciative of our services, we now request that they express their appreciation by voting 'yes' for hospitals on Dec. 11, he said.

He referred to the referendum which will decide on raising property tax two mills for future hospital construction.

Mr. Masters also applauded city council for endorsing the hospitals proposal at its Friday meeting.

"Thank God for the members of city council and their appreciation of the real problem," he said.

In Victoria Call 386-2211

Centre and foremost for the person who enjoys the thrill of hearing from friends and relatives here's the attractive new "Long Distance Gift Certificate."

Always popular as the perfect little personal telephone is the glamorous Starlite—dainty, feminine, in colors to match almost any decor, and the dial lights.

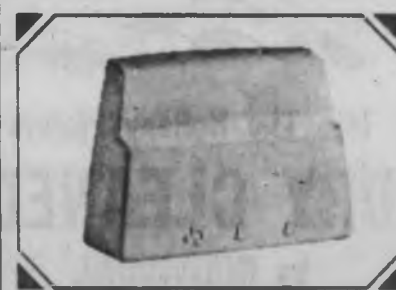

Now you can go about your work and talk to friends with a "hands free" speakerphone. Just talk and listen without using the handset. It comes in decorator colors.

Another gift, popular with "the man who has everything," is the Magical automatic dialer with the electronic memory for up to 1000 telephone numbers. It will dial any one of them for you at the touch of a button.

For the hard of hearing, there's a wonderful and thoughtful gift—the amplifying handset, with a variable volume control, to amplify incoming calls so they can be heard loud and clear.

A welcome gift for that special someone is the melodious bell chime, to replace the regular telephone bell, also in matching colors.

Ever welcome in this activity-packed age is an extension telephone. Save yourself steps and have extensions in all the heavy traffic centres of your home, such as playroom, den, patio, workshop, and of course one in the bedroom for night or early morning calls.

Costs are surprisingly low and in most cases you can pay with small monthly additions to your own account. You'll be glad you took our advice to make this a "Gift Telephone Christmas." Call the Business Office of:

Treasure Hunt

Huge 'Clam' To Dig Deep

OAK ISLAND, N.S. (CP) — Petroleum geologist Robert Dunfield said Monday he hopes to have a new 80-ton "digging clam" in operation on this 132-acre island Wednesday.

The "digging clam" — a 90-foot crane with a bucket attachment — arrived by rail Monday and was being unloaded and transported here across a 1,000-foot causeway built in September.

It will be used to deepen a 140-foot hole on the south side of the bottle-shaped island where Mr. Dunfield and a crew of 12 men hope to find a multi-million dollar pirate treasure trove.

The pit was sunk to about the 140-foot level during the last month by a 70-ton crane that was removed from the island Thursday because it was on contract to another job.

Mr. Dunfield said the pit, a hole with a diameter of about 12 feet, was "in good condition" despite an accumulation of mud that had slipped to the bottom of the shaft. A pump was used to keep the pit dry.

He has extended his treasure-hunting lease on the island to Aug. 31, 1966. The island, the object of more than 20 major treasure hunts in the past 150 years, is owned by M. R. Campbell of Sydney, N.S.

all, a 59-year-old steel worker from Hamilton, Ont., died in a 27-foot gas-filled pit on the island with three fellow workers.

Mr. Dunfield had been an investor in the Restall venture and took over the hunt after his death.

Mr. Dunfield said he hopes to sink the circular hole to a depth of 180 feet and then—depending on what he finds—may or may not go deeper. He believes he has located a "money pit" that was discovered in 1795 by three schoolboys from nearby Chester N.S.

Legend says the "money pit" contains from $20,000,000 to $800,000,000 in gold, silver and jewels and that it was sunk in either the 16th or 17th century by pirates, a garrison from the French fortress at Louisbourg, N.S., or the Spanish, who robbed the Indians of Central and South America.

Mr. Dunfield said he has no idea how much wealth the "money pit" holds, but he's confident a vast treasure is buried here.

He has extended his treasure-hunting lease on the island to Aug. 31, 1966. The island, the object of more than 20 major treasure hunts in the past 150 years, is owned by M. R. Campbell of Sydney, N.S.

Cutting Horse Team Invited to England

CALGARY (CP)—A team of cutting horses will be sent to England to help celebrate Canada's centennial in that country.

The board of governors of the Canadian Cutting Horse Association at its annual meeting Saturday formally accepted an invitation to repeat its 1964 tour of England.

The invitation had been extended by Geoffrey Cross, chairman of the Royal Windsor Horse Show and secretary of the Household Brigade Polo Club.

"It was entirely through the interest of Prince Philip . . . that the first show took place at all," said Mr. Cross.

It is expected that the tour will start in Newark at the beginning of May and continue until the middle of July. About six or eight horses will be sent.

OFFICERS ELECTED
There will be 30 days of actual shows for horses and riders, said Mr. Cross.

Cliff Ross of Edmonton was elected president.

John Cumming of Calgary is the new vice-president, and Stan Milner of Edmonton, show manager, Pat Bowsher of Calgary is chairman of the novice committee and Dennis Mighall of Edmonton is secretary.

DUNCAN — Three men and a woman were remanded in custody for a week on charges of possession and false pretences when they appeared before Magistrate Lance Heard in police court Monday.

Harry Paul Schultz, a U.S. citizen in Canada on a temporary permit, Ronald Hill, Alexander Curran and Margaret Yvonne Majorki were arrested by RCMP following a complaint by Dick Benzie, assistant manager at a department store.

Police said they were investigating complaints that a credit card had been improperly used. They also said they had found safe-cracking equipment in a car.

Canadians To Norway

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Two Canadian women will be in a party accompanying Henry R. Laboulsee, executive director of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) to Oslo to receive the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize on behalf of the agency.

The Canadians to represent the fund at the ceremony are Adelaide Sinclair of Ottawa, now UNICEF's deputy executive director for programs, and Margaret Konstant of Winnipeg, a member of the Canadian delegation to the UN and chairman of the Canadian UNICEF Committee.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "light the pillow," toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why—perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be traced to sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dof's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dof's stimulates kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dof's, and you'll find you feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 16 years. Now large size even more.

Garden Notes

The Unpredictables

By M. V. CHESNUT

Most plants, like most people, behave according to a recognized pattern, and their growth and habits are reasonably predictable. But there are a few plant rebels which are congenital nonconformists; you never know what they are going to do next. These "surprise package" plants are most interesting to have around.

One of these rebels in the name of Laburnum is adami, and it is a wild mixture of broom and laburnum all in the one plant.

In the old days it was common practice to graft choice specimens of broom on laburnum roots, and in the year 1825 a French nurseryman, Jean Louis Adam, was inserting a bud of purple broom in the stem of the common laburnum. Whether his hand slipped during this delicate operation or just what happened, nobody knows, but the bud, instead of "taking" in the normal fashion, grew WITHIN the laburnum, producing a crazy plant which is broom on the inside, laburnum on the outside, and with the in-between tissues a queer combination of the two.

It is a fairly common thing to get three different kinds of blossoms and three different kinds of leaves on Laburnum adami, all at the same time. There are the purple flowers of the broom, the yellow blossoms of the laburnum, and short trails of purplish-pink laburnum-like flowers which are, in fact, hybrid blossoms between the broom and the laburnum. Cuttings taken from Laburnum adami may turn out to be broom, or laburnum, or hybrid, or all three together.

Mirabilis jalapa, known as the Marvel of Peru or Four O'Clock, is another plant which often produces flowers of different colors on the same plant. As long ago as the year 1597 the herbalist John Gerard described the flowers as "larger than the flowers of Tabaco, glittering oft times with a fine purple or crimson color, many times yellow, and most commonly two colours occupying half the flower, or inter-coursing the whole flower with streaks now yellow, now purple, and having sometimes great, sometimes little spots of different colors sprinkled and scattered in a most variable order and brave mixture."

The Marvel of Peru is of the easiest possible culture from seeds sown outdoors in April. Technically it is a perennial, making large black tubers which can be dug up and stored like dahlias, although this is scarcely worth the bother as it grows so rapidly from seeds, available from almost every seedsmen.

The multicolored flowers, freely produced, are very fragrant, with a scent like those of the Nicotines. Except in dull weather, the blossoms don't open until late afternoon, while accounts for its other nickname, Four o'clock.

I often get letters from readers reporting what, to them, is an inexplicable freak: A rose bush bearing blossoms of three different colors, all at the same time.

This is no freak, but the perfectly normal pattern for the rose "Masquerade." In this variety, the blossoms open to a clear yellow, and as the flower ages, it turns to pink, and finally to red. As all the individual flowers do not open at the same time, it is possible to have all three colors in one cluster of blossoms.

ART BUCHWALD Opens His Files

Bundy Awaits The Word

WASHINGTON — It has been rumored that McGeorge Bundy, the president's White House adviser on foreign affairs, has been offered the presidency of the Ford Foundation at $75,000 a year.

It has also been rumored that Bundy really doesn't want to take the job, if the president would indicate what plans he has for Bundy's future.

It is further rumored that Bundy wrote a letter to Johnson telling him of the Ford offer, but so far the president has not answered the letter.

This is not the first time such a correspondence has taken place between a White House aide and the president. I have in my possession a series of letters among presidential staff, written to President Johnson in hopes of forcing the president's hand.

The first one said: "Dear Mr. President,

I have just been offered the chancellorship of the Appalachia Success Correspondence Schools at $100,000 a year. I told them, of course, it would be out of the question to take the job when my services were so badly needed by you.

"They asked me to write to you and inquire whether my job in the White House was that important, and so, to please a whim, more than anything else, I am writing to you, knowing full well what your answer will be. Waiting for hear from you I remain, Yours truly,"

The following week another letter was sent.

"Dear Mr. President, I know how busy you have been lately, but I was just wondering if you ever received my letter concerning the job offer made to me by the Appalachia Success Correspondence Schools.

United States sent to me, but he insists he's never seen one.

To bring you up to date, the Appalachia Success Correspondence Schools want me to head up their program. My wife says I ought to take it, but I said my first loyalty was to you, and that you would be infuriated if I even considered it.

Could you have someone call me just to confirm this, as the Appalachia people are starting to wonder if I really do work in the White House.

I'd be very happy to stay right where I am. Unlike many White House staffers I have no ambitions other than to serve you to the best of my ability. The photographs of you at LBJ ranch are wonderful.

Your Faithful Servant

The final letter was sent on Nov. 14.

"Dear Mr. President, I regret that I must submit my resignation for personal reasons. Now before you protest . . ."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

It's Anytime Now

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—"I'll probably get married within a month," said Leslie Caron when I called London for the latest on the situation with Warren Beatty. Beatty answered the phone, so the situation is good. Even though Leslie qualified her remarks with a few not so lovey-dovey sentences about the institution of wedlock, chiefly a kind of mutual ownership, taking each other for granted. I feel that quite often a relationship without marriage has a better chance of surviving. After all, it's really just a social custom to give children the name of a gentleman."

But no one is kidding anyone. Leslie wants to marry Warren.

"My life has changed so," Leslie mused. "As you know I've just finished my role in Is Paris Burning and that's a long way from an American in Paris and Gigi. But it's my private life that has changed the most. I have completely divorced myself from my upbringing, religious and social. I was educated in convents and had the proper friends. I started to learn ballet at nine and that was considered shocking. I went through my adolescence with a sense of shame because I was learning to dance."

Leslie disapproves strongly of her upbringing. "It has taken me years to shed all the inhibitions." She is still very cautious and careful. Except where Beatty is concerned.

This is funny. With Oscar Werner almost sure of winning the Oscar for his performance in Ship of Fools, Paramount is trying to convince him to be in the supporting actor category for The Spy Who Came in From the Cold hoping that Richard Burton as the spy will win the Oscar as the best actor. Oscar, stand firm on your "Ship." Don't go for the supporting category. Those who have read the "Spy" picture will realize that Burton is giving a good performance as the drab agent. But when you play a dull character it can rub off on the film and player.

Harold Lloyd's daughter Penny wanted to make it on her own. She is doing extra work and stand-in stuff. She certainly hasn't gotten as far as Joan Crawford's adopted daughter Christina, who really has made it on her own. Danny Thomas' daughter Mario, now starring in London in Barefoot in the Park, had all the help she wanted from her famed father. Movie star parents don't always, in fact rarely want their offspring to be actors. Ray Milland was delighted when his handsome son Danny abandoned greasepaint for another crack at education, to name one fervent parent. Lucille Ball is just about reconciled to son Desi being an actor although she believes her daughter will make the grade sooner, as a serious performer. You could go down the line in almost every movie star family. Some are for. Some are against.

Frank Sinatra is one of the for's. It cannot be mere coincidence that Sinatra Junior is making his motion picture debut in A Man Called Adam which stars the senior Frank's closest friend, Sammy Davis—closest next to Dean Martin that is . . . and Simone Signoret was delighted, or resigned let's say to daughter Catherine Allegret's decision to be an actress. Catherine made her debut with Simone and Yves Montand, her husband in Killer's compartment.

Charge It, Please

STAN DELAPLANE

If you are wondering what in the world the world is coming to, I will tell you, by golly.

It is coming to a matter of cash. This will happen not because confidence is lost. It will happen because you cannot stuff any more credit cards in your wallet.

I cite a report from a financial magazine.

"The average American now carries eight credit cards and has access to seven more that he keeps at home or in his office."

Practically universal credit cards are a matter of status symbols now.

The most vicious thing about the present credit cards is that they are printed with raised letters on plastic.

This embossed surface allows the creditor to stamp it into your bill—an intaglio depression to match your spirit when the nudge arrives at long last.

The danger is reported to me in a letter:

"I signed the tab and absently slipped the credit card into my hip pocket. When I sat down I thought I had been bitten. And repairing to the gent's lounge, had an examination made by the attendant."

"He found I had successfully stamped myself: 'Diners Club—021-038-714-8.' Plus my local address which is long and painful."

Well, jolly jolly England, where credit is too personal for cards, has taken a sad leap into a sadder future.

One of the largest tailoring houses, founded 180 years ago, has decided to violate custom and ask its customers to pay their bills.

This was reported by a tailoring trade magazine to show that London tailors are getting on the ball.

One of the nicest things I ever had was an account with Simpson's of Piccadilly. A most modern store absolutely wonderful about bills.

While creditors here suggested "you may have overlooked etc.," the directors of Simpson's wished me a "Merry Christmas."

The clothing company at home pointed to something "overdue."

But Simpson's hoped their letter found me and my family in good health.

With "cordial good wishes and thanks for your patronage." They added mildly that my July account was enclosed.

This seemed to me an elegant way to handle such matters. I had read enough British novels to know that you never pay your tailor. While my purchase was ready-to-wear, I still thought it should apply.

I was not issued a back-biting, embossed card by Simpson's. And have never been asked for more than "your name and address, sir."

It gave me a warm feeling. And I have "charged" things I didn't even need.

Of course, if one of London's largest tailoring establishments is calling creditors to account, the balloon has gone up—(as they say in London). And I imagine raised credit cards will soon be issued. Ready to imprint themselves on the unwary.

The tailors' magazine reported that the customers of that leading house owed $1,722,018. But if we're going to let love of money come ahead of everything, I don't know what we are coming to.

Worldly Care Banished By Pure Fun of Aladdin

By E. D. WARD HARRIS

Christmas started last night! I am sure that no one in the audience at the McPherson gave a thought to worldly cares as for two and a half hours they roared at the antics of the cast of Aladdin.

When you go this week, as you must, to see this pantomime, go in an expansive mood. Be gay, uninhibited and receptive. Your enjoyment will be in equal proportion to your mental approach.

For pantomime is for the young and the young at heart. If you can't stop being grown-up for one evening, don't go.

IMAGINATION

Anthony Burton, directing for the Theatre Guild, obviously has a feeling for pantomime. Every fault in this production is, I feel sure, due to his imagination and ambition exceeding available human and technical resources.

I've loved pantomimes all my life, and in London often saw four or five different productions in a week.

Pantomime to me is as much a part of Christmas as plum pudding. And like the pudding, all ingredients must be carefully prepared, well mixed and the whole served with panache to extract maximum effect.

DEMANDING The recipe is a demanding one: Glitter, magic, spectacle, vaudeville, sentiment, slapstick, ham and corn. All welded by a tenuous story line based on a fairy tale.

Mr. Burton, within the limitations imposed upon him, has done well. He has assembled a cast containing much talent and has managed to make them aware that they are mixed up in a crazy fairy story where anything goes and the outrageous becomes normal behavior.

And that must have taken some doing.

Of those involved, Cliff Clarke (Widow Twankey), Carolyn

Carolyn

Ginny

Stephens (Aladdin) and Ginny Stephens (Salome) stand out for the way they enter wholeheartedly into the spirit of the thing.

The Dame is the essence of pantomime. In her person is summed up all the lunacy that is accepted as commonplace. Cliff Clarke, a ham who dishes out corn with relish, is riotously right.

He looks the part and brings to it the essential, traditional touch of vulgarity without ever being offensive. He is also full of surprises, like singing opera in a creditable soprano!

NO DOUBT

Caroline Stephens, an accomplished actress with a delightful elfin personality (she is a natural for Peter Pan), shines in what is really a dull role by her ability to take the stage and make it her own. Her movement is graceful and her diction stands out in a production where some were over-loud or unintelligible.

One point. A principal boy should not only be a girl, but should leave no possible doubt as to that fact. Her short skirt is fine, but flesh-colored nylon mesh tights and high-heeled shoes, please.

Miss Stephens looks too studious from the waist down. She should strut, and it's difficult to strut in slippers!

COMEDY SENSE

Infinitely gaminous Ginny Stephens has a lovely sense of comedy. She acts the whole time she is on stage and steals scene after scene from the principals. Her little dance in outlandish policeman's garb—it only lasts a moment or two —is a gem. She's a great little comedienne.

Phyllis Gaskell, as Fairy Dewdrop, and Don Jacobs as the villain of the piece, are responsible for a full share of fun. The former would be a lot funnier if she played up the Hermione Baddley style more, and the latter must speed up and throw his voice.

I wish I had space to give to everyone in the cast, for all performed well.

COSTUMES

The script needs to be tightened, as does chorus action. Face lags behind enthusiasm.

Full marks for costumes, but a complaint is that scenery was disappointing. It lacked imagination, particularly in the cave scene. Lots more color and glitter are called for. It was dull, and pantomime must never be dull.

One other complaint. Is it necessary for the entire musical score of the show to be played as an overture? It went on and on. Surely, a medley would suffice.

FOR CHILDREN

Otherwise it's a good show and deserves packed houses for its week-long run.

A final word. No matter what the moderns say, pantomime is for children. And because it's for children I deeply regret that the current production consists of six late night shows and only one matinee.

Can this not be rectified, even at this late stage? I feel this is important because I hope we will have a yearly pantomime in Victoria. And the taste for panto, like the taste for Dickens, cricket and chocolate eclairs should be acquired in early life.

SO, GO! However, it's never too late to start, and I doubt whether you'll ever see pantomime anywhere else outside Britain. So, go!

OK To 'Go-Go,' Girls, But Don't Go TOO Far

TRENTON N.J. (UPI) — "Go-Go" girls are OK in New Jersey, as long as they don't "go-go" too far.

Bulging-eyed undercover agents from the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission are under orders to make sure the "Go-Go" girls don't go too far while swinging in their bird cages or gyrating, stomping and undulating on a stage.

Joseph Lord, Director of the New Jersey ABC Commission said through his undercover agents, he was keeping tabs on establishments featuring "Go-Go" girls, the latest innovation in luring customers into taverns.

The costumes of the girls have a common denominator — they must be brief and tight, or both. The girls sway, jerk, gyrate, stomp, shuffle, and shake through such dances as "The Jerk", "The Swim", "The Chicken Back", "The Sloopy", "The Hammer", "The Watusi", "The Duck" and a few yet unclassified.

Lord's attitude is dictated by law. If the girls exceed the bounds of good taste or offer lewd performances they'll find their show abruptly cancelled.

He said, "I'm not against the 'Go-Go' girls just as long as they don't go too far."

His agents have been instructed to see to it that night spot owners are advised to comply.

Valley Gets Brief Respite

PORT ALBERNI — For those who believe in omens, the sunshine that blessed the opening of the new Credit Union building Saturday afternoon pointed the way to a bright future.

And for all Alberni Valley residents, it was a blessed relief from the inch-a-day average that has been maintaining for the past 12 days. Starting Nov. 24, rain every day for 12 straight days has totalled 12.81 inches according to McCoy Lake weatherman's figures.

For the first five days of December, which has an average of about 18 inches for the month, 5.08 inches have already been recorded.

Hysteria Catches On

LONDON (UPI) — An outbreak of what a physician termed "infectious hysteria" among small girls at a Newport, England, school has been reported.

Dr. John Sleight said he found about 30 girls lying on mats on the grass, some of them weeping and complaining of dizziness, stomach pains and weakness of the legs.

The girls were examined but nothing was found wrong. When they were told they were better, they got up and returned to their classrooms, he reported.

Oldster Kayaks North

By MARY ANN REESE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don't tell 70-year-old Luther "Doc" Meyer he ought to retire and take it easy.

"Most older folks have more steam in their boilers than they know," says Meyer, who scoffs at the image of himself sitting on a porch in a rocking chair.

Meyer, on the staff of the San Francisco Examiner and News Call Bulletin, is the dean of San Francisco's newspaper reporters, but during his vacations he is off to some far-away spot for a bit of rugged adventure.

How does a man of 67 decide to make a 1000-mile kayak trip, as Meyer first did three years ago? "Well," said the goateed Meyer, his eyes sparkling behind rimless glasses, "I was just ready to leave on a 7000-mile motorcycle trip from Portland, Ore., to Mexico in 1963 when I visited the annual boat show here. I saw a kayak like the one Dr. Hans Lindemann used to cross the North Atlantic in 1956—and bought it."

NET OFF ALONE He went on to Mexico, but when he returned he began making plans for his first trip down the Mackenzie.

When summer came he traveled to the end of the road at Fort Providence in the Northwest Territories, then set off alone in his craft with a tent, food supplies, hatchet, hunting knife, flares and soap. One thousand miles later he reached the mouth of the river at Beaufort Bay.

Meyer has come back every year since. Happily admitting "I'm hooked," he is planning his fourth expedition for next summer.

With all their perils, these trips "leave you feeling more competent," he says. "Life is a do-it-yourself job up there. There's no AAA to call if you're in trouble."

Meyer is not content with the adventure involved—he has also taken up exploring the islands and rugged terrain through which he passes for Eskimo burial sites, hundreds of years old, for the Northern Research Laboratory at Inuvik, Northwest Territories.

But his fondest experiences have been meeting the people who live in the far-off wilderness.

CALLED 'GRANDDAD' "Eskimo youngsters accept me as granddad. It's really something, inventing fairy tales for a roomful of Eskimo kids, half of them already tucked into bed."

The last thing in Meyer's mind is retiring—"I've got too many dreams going."

"I feel grateful for the strength to do these things," he says. "The last years can be damn good years."

Occasionally, the Four-Letter Bomb

BBC Weathers Storm Of Blank-Blank Word

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — The British Broadcasting Corp. has just ridden out a crisis arising from the use of a dirty word over the air. But how long it can avoid the censorship now imposed on stage and screen is becoming a debatable question.

The Viewers and Listeners' Council (formerly the Clean-Up TV Campaign) claims 400,000 signatures on a petition demanding some sort of official restraint.

The latest battle collapsed when the attorney general declined to prosecute the BBC for the use of a four-letter Anglo-Saxonism in a discussion program.

BBC APOLOGIZED

The same word has occasionally been the subject of obscenity proceedings in other circumstances. The BBC did apologize for permitting the word to be used this time.

The attorney general declined to prosecute after Mrs. Mary Whitehead, co-founder of the council, wrote Queen Elizabeth to protest the incident. Mrs. Whitehead also asked the home secretary to rule on when the use of the word would be construed as an offence. The answer was: Only when it would tend to corrupt viewers.

UNDRESS ALLOWED North Americans in Britain are sometimes astonished by what can be said and shown on British screens. A troupe of African dancing girls had to wear brassieres before they were permitted to dance in Trafalgar Square. They danced on television without them. Cameras took an equally frank look in the dressing room of Parisian models during the dress shows.

GUESSEDWORK? NO: Everybody knows what they really mean.

Recent bedroom dialogue between couples in a play had viewers jamming the network telephones with protests.

Many of these remarks, carried into the living rooms of millions of homes, are never printed in family newspapers. Hence part of the essential equipment for a television reviewer in Britain is large supply of asterisks.

GIRL-TALK

The BBC is aware that some attempt may be made to impose censorship and it is ready for battle. Recently its director-general, Sir Hugh Carlisle Greene, told members of parliament he would continue the present policy of trying to widen the horizons both of television and the public.

He admitted that three programs in 11 days had produced BBC apologies. One of them was the four-letter word. Another was a show in which young, unmarried women discussed the measures they took to avoid motherhood.

EMBARRASSMENT

The third program offended some Christians. A rock and roll group sang a pop song version of the Christian Creed.

The BBC takes the stand that a four-letter word might conceivably have a place in a serious and thoughtful discussion among adults, although it evidently regretted its use in an unscripted disputation on censorship.

"I didn't expect such a word," said the chairman of the panel, Robert Robinson. "It's unfair to embarrass people without giving them the choice of deciding whether they want to be embarrassed."

REPORT LENIENT

In its current year-end report the BBC said that despite the complaints its writers would still have a free hand to express themselves with "honesty and integrity." The report said this was far removed from the policy of "dirt, doubt and diabolism" of which it has been accused by critics.

One proposal for censorship recently put forward would have a panel of viewers rate programs the way film censors rate movies. Every cinema in Britain must display these ratings: U for films suitable for the whole family; A for films suitable for children only; X for adult-only films.

Polaris Missile Spotted by Gemini 7

Astronauts Drifting and Dreaming

SPACE CENTRE, Houston (UPI)—The Gemini 7 astronauts were drifting and dreaming in space Monday night at the end of a busy day that included the sighting of a submarine-launched Polaris missile. James Lovell was flying through the night in his underwear.

And Lt-Col. Frank Borman, the Gemini 7 command pilot, had his 16-pound flight suit unzipped to keep cool. He reported that he and co-pilot Lovell had been warm "since we've been up here" on their two-week endurance voyage.

Before settling down for more sleep on their third night aloft the pilots did some exercise with a stretch cord, ate and rigged their ship for "hands-off" flying.

Earlier, project officials announced there was a 50-50 chance that Gemini 6 might be launched one day early—on Dec. 12—in its effort to overtake Gemini 7 and fly close formation with it. Work was well ahead of schedule at Cape Kennedy on the craft of Gemini 6 pilots Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford.

A decision was to be made on Tuesday as to whether the rendezvous attempt so important to Project Apollo which will land men on the moon could be moved up a day.

Lovell reported a minor accident as he and Borman were preparing to have their evening meal.

"I also had another catastrophe. As I was reaching back for one of my food bags,

I snagged my head on the overhead and tore off all my EGG (electroencephalogram) leads. We're in the process of pasting them back on now.

The sensors are used to measure brain activity during both work and sleep periods. For one thing, they tell how deeply the pilots are sleeping.

Gemini 7 soared into its 35th orbit at 8:50 p.m. EST.

At that point, the astronauts were exercising and eating and getting settled down for another nice long sleep.

During the 34th orbit, Lovell gave ground control a report on food and water intake and sleep. At that point each had slept 12 hours since the take-off on Friday. Borman had

Luna VIII Crashes On Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today that its unmanned spaceship Luna VIII failed to make a soft landing on the moon.

Announcing the landing, the Soviet news agency Tass said the soft-landing system worked normally at all stages but the last.

Had it been successful, the feat would have put Russia well ahead of the United States in the race to put a man on the moon.

FURTHER STEP
In its English-language service, the Soviet news agency said the probe "reached the surface of the moon."

As a result of the probe Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing, the agency added.

Luna VIII was launched Friday. The Jodrell Bank Observatory in England heard the signals from the space ship stop two seconds after it landed.

NEAR 'OCEAN'
Tass said the probe landed on the southern "shore" of the waterless Ocean of Storms.

Today's announcement said that as a result of the probe, Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing.

Children Thrive On Own

VANCOUVER (CP) — A devout family of four children which disappeared from Montreal in August is living happily here and has no desire to go home. (See Page 11.)

They made this clear Monday after authorities informed them that their parents knew where they were.

UNDER SUPERVISION
The children, Mary Balent, 17, her brother Andre, 31, and sisters Milcha, 14, and Dora, 9, are living in a West End apartment under the supervision of the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

They disappeared from their home Aug. 30 and, in a manner they refuse to disclose, travelled to Vancouver.

"They promised us we wouldn't have to go back," the children said repeatedly to a reporter.

FEARED DEAD
Meanwhile, their anguished mother, Mrs. Vinko Balent, said in a telephone interview from Montreal she thought her children were dead.

The children have established a home here that revolves around Maria, a blonde girl with a serious face that shows the responsibility she has accepted.

She works as a nurse's aid and sometimes as a cleaning woman.

ATTEND SCHOOL
The other children attend school and two of them have paper routes.

The reporter who interviewed them said: "They seem wiser than their years, and they are wary and protective of each other. But they are particularly well-mannered, polite youngsters, careful not to be rude to strangers."

Dollars For Scholars

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett will fly to Ottawa this week to ask for more money for universities and hospitals and to ask that mental health be brought under the federal-provincial hospital care agreement.

He said Monday he would leave for Ottawa Wednesday to attend the second annual meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers. He will be accompanied by deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

EARLY DECISION
The talks are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

The premier said he would especially ask for an immediate decision on federal government participation in the cost of higher education, because universities will soon have to be preparing their budgets for next year.

BLADEN REPORT
He said he would ask for implementation of the recommendations made in the Bladen Commission report on higher education.

The Bladen report recommended that the present per capita grant be raised to $5 for the year 1965-66 and be increased by $1 each year thereafter until an appropriate revision can be made, in consultation with the provinces.

CAPITAL GRANTS
It also recommended establishment of a capital grants fund into which annual payments would be made of $5 per head of the Canadian population and which would amount to about $100,000,000 a year.

Mr. Bennett said he would ask for "a more realistic approach" by Ottawa toward capital costs for hospitals.

The provincial government now pays about half of hospital capital costs while the federal government share is sometimes as low as 10 per cent, he said.

"And I will ask for the federal government to carry out its previous commitment to bring mental health under the hospital care agreement," the premier said.

Pope Paul

Holy Office Faces Big Changes

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul Monday ordered an unprecedented reorganization of the Holy Office — once the Inquisition — and the Vatican ecumenical council ended three years of work by approving a church policy statement on modern problems.

The Roman Catholic prelates gave a decisive vote of acceptance to the Schema (draft document) on modern problems, which includes condemnation of nuclear warfare and a proposal for further studies on contraception. (See Page 6.)

Pope Paul, consulted by telephone, told council presiding officers he approved the document although an unusually large number of prelates—including many Americans—voted against its blanket denunciation of nuclear weapons.

DOCUMENT APPROVED
A vote of 2,111 to 251 approved the document as a whole. In a separate vote on the nuclear warfare section, the vote was 1,710 to 483. No other major council document has drawn so much opposition in a decisive vote.

With the council virtually concluded, Pope Paul issued two major pontifical documents:

● An Apostolic constitution entitled Maritimus Eventus (Wondrous Event) set a five-month jubilee period, from Jan. 1 to May 29 (Pentecost

Sunday), to promote the council's decisions. The document outlined a jubilee program of religious services centred in individual dioceses, instead of at the Vatican, as in past jubilees.

● A motu proprio, or personal papal letter, gave a new statute for the Holy Office, changing its status and name, lifting most of its secrecy and ordering that defendants brought before it must be given the right of defence.

MOST WEeping
The changes for the Holy Office were the most sweeping since it was formed out of the Inquisition in 1542 during the century of the Protestant reformation. Its very name—Holy Office — had aroused bitter memories among non-Roman Catholic Christians and even some Catholic theologians. Following council directives, Pope Paul changed it to "The Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith." Until Monday it had been the "Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office."

African Terms Rejected

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson Monday rejected African terms for breaking white-ruled Rhodesia's rebellion and thus risked a mass walkout of the Commonwealth's 16 non-white countries.

The British leader did so convinced that Britain's preferred program of economic sanctions already has rendered Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's breakaway regime bankrupt. Wilson also was bolstered by the fact Commonwealth countries who break with London stand to lose their trading preferences.

FRIDAY WARNING
The Organization of African Unity warned Friday its 36 members would break off diplomatic relations with London if Britain did not crush Smith's white-minority government by Dec. 15.

"The responsibility is ours," Wilson told The Daily Mirror, "and whatever the cost we shall not be pressured into starting a war which we believe to be wrong."

PINCERS HURT
There were signs, meanwhile, Britain's economic pincers were beginning to hurt Rhodesia. Defaulted Monday on its interest payments of a four-per-cent loan stock. London stock dealers reacted quickly, lowering prices on Rhodesian bonds by about $14. Smith himself has said Rhodesia will no longer be able to honor international loans.

WARNING MADE
In Salisbury, Finance Minister J. J. Wrathall warned Rhodesians they can expect more tax increases and more unemployment as a result of the British sanctions.

Wilson held out an offer to Rhodesia's white minority of a negotiated settlement "without fear, without surrender, without recrimination."

The OAU threats are seriously, though calmly, by Wilson.

OTHER WARNINGS
They have been reinforced by warnings of such countries as Uganda, Tanzania and others that they may quit the Commonwealth unless the British act as demanded. Nine OAU members also are Commonwealth members.

If the African countries were to fulfil their threats then Asian members of the Commonwealth very likely would do so too, in the British view.

Mitterand

'Jilted' de Gaulle Remains Mum On Runoff Ballot

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle remained at his country estate in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises Monday, keeping a typical silence about his plans after Sunday's rebuff in the French presidential election.

If he does not withdraw his name from competition or resign from the presidency, he will have to defeat left-wing candidate Francois Mitterand in a second ballot Dec. 19th, decide the presidency.

De Gaulle has until midnight Thursday night to pull out of the second ballot. There seems little possibility that he would withdraw, Gaullist sources said.

NEVER RECOVER
The moderate daily Le Figaro said Monday a withdrawal "would not only be wrong on the tactical level but would deal to the institutions which de Gaulle himself established a never recover."

If he runs again, de Gaulle could be expected to harvest many of the votes which went to Senator Jean Lecanuet and the other non-left candidates in the first ballot. His victory was being regarded as assured.

Instead of the "frank and massive support" he had sought for another seven-year term as president, de Gaulle was rejected by a majority of the voters Sunday in favor of one or the other of his five opponents. With only a few overseas votes still uncouneted, de Gaulle had received less than 45 per cent of the nearly 25,000,000 votes cast—only 13 per cent more than Mitterand, running with both socialist and Communist support.

FURY CITED
He warned them not to underestimate the fury of British Prime Minister Wilson's attack. "He has pinned his faith on a savage onslaught aimed at sapping our courage and our will to win," he said.

De Gaulle had expected so confidently he hardly campaigned at all—to be returned to office by a substantial majority for a second seven-year term in Sunday's presidential

Rubber Plantation Site of New Battle

SAIGON (AP)—New fighting, U.S. spokesmen said 231 Communists had been confirmed killed. Some American officers said they counted 50 enemy bodies in the dense jungle terrain where it often is difficult to see a man two yards away.

On the central coast, a U.S. marine amphibious operation north of Qui Nhon ended Monday with 26 Viet Cong confirmed killed, five captured and 12 suspects held, spokesman said. Marine casualties were termed light.

The fighting was an apparent resumption of the weekend battle that U.S. officials said killed 231 Communists.

U.S. officials said in the weekend battle the 1st Division infantrymen suffered moderate casualties but some individual units were hit hard.

Surprising Setback

He Still Stands Tall Among Rivals

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

French voters deflated the image of President de Gaulle but he continues to stand tall among his rivals on the French political scene.

De Gaulle had expected so confidently he hardly campaigned at all—to be returned to office by a substantial majority for a second seven-year term in Sunday's presidential election. But as things turned out, he had to settle for less than 45 per cent of the total vote.

The surprising setback brought smiles to opponents of his policy of seeking to establish France as a force independent of the United States and the Soviet Union.

The French president lost favour among his European allies as well as the United States for pursuing an independent foreign policy which ran against their policies as members of the North Atlantic Alliance and the European Economic Community.

Opponents of de Gaulle appeared happy that the president was lowered by the voters from his lofty pedestal and placed on the political plane of mortals.

Fire Chief Seeking Help

NORTH COWICHAN—North Cowichan (Southend) Fire Chief Pat Clarkson has made a strong plea to vote for an $8,500 referendum to be put before municipal taxpayers in the southern part at the Dec. 11 election.

Mr. Clarkson said of that sum $5,200 has been slated for the installation of fire hydrants and the rest will be used for the purchase of a utility vehicle for the Southend Fire Department. He said the truck will be the fire brigade's chief officer's "legal means of transportation" to direct fire trucks.

The vehicle will also carry rescue equipment. Coun. John Cannon said the $8,500 in all probability will not raise the mill rate, but if it does it only would be about a quarter of a mill.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction of retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction of your money refunded.

Volunteers Reject Ambulance Proposal

PORT ALBERNI—Members of the volunteer fire brigade here have pointed out that the suggestion of an ambulance service run in conjunction with the fire department, made by some aldermanic candidates, is an impossibility under the present volunteer system.

As it is, the volunteers point out, the brigade operates only through the conscientious co-operation of employers and businessmen who either permit their employees to dash off to fires, or leave their own business premises to do so. To expect these people to further broaden their activities to permit the men to make ambulance calls is asking too much, say the volunteers.

Operation of ambulance service in conjunction with the fire department will only become practical when 12 or 15 full-time firemen are employed, added the volunteers.

FRIENDLY COVE—Funeral services were held at the Nootka Island Indian Reserve on the west coast of Vancouver Island for Mrs. Anne Agent, who was born there 108 years ago and had lived on the island all her life. She left one child, 10 grandchildren and 30 great grandchildren.

NANAIMO—A survey has now been completed by Vancouver planner Rawson and Wiles of the No. 1 Indian Reserve.

Chief Doug White said he has not read the report nor has his council studied it.

He said the plan includes the possibility of leasing part of the reserve for light industry.

The company will have maps of the area in the hands of the council within a short time, but the council will not meet again until Jan. 6.

A further land use study for residential purposes may be made along the south bank of Nanaimo River on No. 4 Reserve which is close to Harmae. Charlie Rudolph, chairman of North Cedar Waterworks, said this week his district would be willing to supply water, and he had given costs on a 30-house subdivision.

NORTH CHEMAMUNUS—Mr. Frank Cain, Robertson St., suffered an accident at his home here. While pruning a tall cherry tree, he lost his footing, and fell to the ground, he broke a vertebra and a rib, and sustained multiple bruises. He was taken by ambulance to the Chemamus Hospital, where he is making satisfactory progress.

Three Men Free On Bail

COURTENAY — Gary Vern Parkinson charged with threatening by a gesture, therefore committing assault, pleaded not guilty when he appeared before Magistrate John Ryland Monday. His case was remanded to Dec. 13 and he was released on bail of $50.

Keith C. Parkinson also pleaded not guilty to a charge of obstructing a police officer and was released on $250 bail.

Both men are from Merville and were represented in court by Harry Reddin.

Terrance William Jossel charged with assault with intent to commit bodily harm entered a plea and will appear Dec. 13. The assault is alleged to have taken place against Donald George White. Jossel was released on bail of $150.

Submission of Mistaken Identity Saves Accused From Stiffer Fine

DUNCAN — A defence counsel submission of mistaken identity saved Francis Joe of Duncan from a heavier fine when he entered a guilty plea to charges of impaired driving and driving while suspended.

When the court heard of similar convictions during 1959, 1962,

Reeve Donald Morton indicated Monday he already is looking for a suitable site in the southern portion of the municipality for a recreational centre to have it available whenever the City of Duncan and unorganized areas are ready to make a firm commitment.

TWO FIFTHS OF COST
The reeve said, "I feel a reasonable share from the North Cowichan Municipality towards a recreational centre in the south could be as much as two fifths of the total cost."

Reeve Morton hinted the Duncan Curling Club would be prepared to co-operate and the site for a recreation centre would include sufficient space for a curling rink which would be built by the club.

MULTI-PURPOSE

The reeve's comments followed a statement by the chairman of the recently formed South Cowichan recreation commission Jim Quaise who suggested a recreation centre in the Duncan area should also include an ice skating arena, a community hall to serve many types of recreation and a swimming pool.

Mr. Quaise, who is also the adult supervisor for the Duncan Teen Town, said this group also would chip in and put all efforts into such a large recreation centre in Duncan.

BY END OF YEAR

Referring to the Duncan Curling Club's intention to co-operate he said, "The club wants to know by the end of this year or very early in 1966 whether or not a recreation centre will be planned for the Duncan area."

Council accepted the resignation at a meeting last night.

Madess was convicted of committing a public nuisance and placed on a one-year suspended sentence last month following a party at which a number of cars were damaged.

Council decided to wait until next year before naming a new planning officer. Appraiser William Mantle will take over the approving officer's duties in addition to his own.

More Revisions

IWA Progressing In Rate Talks

DUNCAN — Region No. 1 of the IWA made further progress in rate revision talks when members of the union's negotiating committee signed nine more revisions with Forest Industrial Relations, recently at Vancouver.

The signing brings the rate revisions to a total of 10 categories.

Two weeks before the two bodies completed the rate revision for planer men.

Local 130, IWA president Weldon Jubenville, said FIR asked for an adjournment on six sawmill and logging rate revisions but it is hoped they will be finished this Thursday.

Mr. Jubenville said, "some of the rate revisions have been outstanding for the past five years and it is the first time we have made revisions under this section of the coast master agreement."

Mr. Jubenville added, "I cannot see any reason why the remaining categories presently up for revision cannot be completed prior to Jan. 1 next year."

automatic trimmer men and first aid men.

Negotiations for a new master agreement due for signing next summer will start March 15, 1966, and members of Local 130, IWA will deal with contract demands at a meeting here in February.

The demands will be submitted to the wage and contract conference at Vancouver, Feb. 25 and 26.

Winter Works Shelved By Lack of Jobs

DUNCAN — When the Cowichan winter employment committee met at city hall, members came to the conclusion that there was so little unemployment in the district at present, it was unnecessary to make any immediate plans for winter work projects.

Another meeting was scheduled for the first week in the new year.

Pensioners Elect Slate

PORT ALBERNI — Old age pensioners in the Alberni Valley held their election of officers last week, and returned president Mrs. Ann Damery for yet another term by acclamation.

The election was conducted by recreation director Dunc Russell, who takes an active interest in the group. Longtime worker Rusty West declined nomination for Vice-President this year, but his wife, Mrs. Phyllis West, was elected to that office.

Plans were completed for the annual Christmas banquet which will be held Thursday Dec. 16 at the Port Legion Hall at 6:30 p.m.

CHARTERED BUS
Businessmen, city officials and the older citizens themselves all chip in to make this a fun-filled evening. Transportation has been arranged, with a chartered bus leaving from River Bend Bridge at 5:30 p.m. and following its usual route, finally passing senior citizens housing and arriving in town in good time for the festivities. Return transportation will be provided in the same way.

Among the many who will provide entertainment for the pensioners and their friends will be members of the Eagles auxiliary, a quartet provided by businessman Jim Skinner, and travel pictures shown by Mayor Les Hammer.

"I will state, however, that I strongly uphold the need for town planning and I do favor the continuous steps toward amalgamation of all services between the two cities. I shall apply myself vigorously to the problems faced by city council."

ACTIVE HERE

Mr. Lyon, who has lived in the Alberni Valley nine years, has been active in both scholastic and civic affairs. Prior to his appointment as director of elementary school education, he was principal of Alberni Elementary and Eighth Avenue Schools. In civic affairs, Mr. Lyon was an executive member of the Alberni Voters' Association, and recently chairman of the committee supporting amalgamation in Port Alberni.

A resident of both cities during his time here, Mr. Lyon said, "I believe this area has a powerful tax base, and progressive community development is economically possible."

Beautification, Sidewalks Vital Says Candidate

PORT ALBERNI — Ken Hoffman, aldermanic candidate running for a two-year term on Port Alberni council, says he feels that candidates representing groups are unable to be objective about the needs of a municipality.

"These are my own ideas, as an individual, on city planning," Hoffman said as he outlined four areas he would like to see council deal with. "I do not represent any bloc. I strongly feel group representatives are unable to be objective."

Nanaimo

Man Shoots Wife, Kills Self

NANAIMO — A 65-year-old father in failing health asked his daughter's forgiveness before he shot her mother and committed suicide.

Police here believe that the shooting deaths Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Thomson was a murder-suicide.

RCMP found Carey Thomson slumped in a chair at his Hammond Bay Road home holding a nine-millimetre semi-automatic revolver in his hand.

WHILE ASLEEP
Investigators said they believe he shot his wife Marjorie, who was about the same age, while she was asleep.

RCMP here were called to the scene to investigate what was at first believed to be a routine prowler complaint.

MADE CALL

Apparently Thomson, service manager at G. A. Fletcher Music Co. Ltd., on Commercial Street, called serviceman Joe Thompson at 8:15 a.m.

Thomson said he would be late for work because there was a prowler near his home, and he asked Joe Thompson to call the police.

SECOND GUN
Mrs. Thomson was killed with a .38 calibre revolver. A second shot was fired from this weapon, but the bullet lodged in the barrel. It is then believed Thomson picked up the second revolver to use on himself.

Both man and wife were shot through the head.

The couple lived alone, but have a married daughter living at Duncan.

Thomson left a note for his daughter asking forgiveness for his action. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thomson had been in poor health for some time.

Nanaimo Coroner Russ Inkster said he will not call an inquest on the double fatality.

Burner Sparks Protest

NANAIMO — Forty-one residents in the south end of the city submitted a petition to council here Monday protesting the operation of a beehive burner at the end of Halliburton Street.

The burner is part of the Mayo Lumber Co. sawmill.

In submitting the petition Peter McCusker, 748 Nicol Street, said in his letter the area in the path of the smoke and ash is primarily residential.

HEALTH THREAT
The nuisance depressed property values as well as jeopardizing the health of residents, he added.

On Dec. 16 a hearing will be held by the Central Vancouver Island Board of Health, and the city's representative on the board, Ald. Gordon McKay, was authorized to protest the burner's operation if the situation is as stated in the petition.

TO RENT BUILDING

Council agreed to rent the former Madill Building on Arena Street to Pacific Marine Construction for $250 per month.

The company intends to build yards and boom boats.

In other council business paving of Zorkin Street was authorized.

Westwood Will Shun B.C. Politics for Good

NANAIMO — Earle Westwood has quit B.C. politics for good. The announcement was made by Dave Walters, president of the Nanaimo and the Islands constituency association, to a Sacred meeting Monday night.

Mr. Walters said he had been phoned by Mr. Westwood who is now agent-general in London, when he was in Victoria recently.

Mr. Westwood was defeated in the last provincial election by David Stupich, NDP.

Employment in Albernis Stays Fairly Constant

PORT ALBERNI — Despite the coming of winter, employment in the Alberni Valley remained on a fairly constant level, according to National Employment Service Officers, here.

At the end of November there were 275 men and 239 women registered for employment, an increase of less than 100 from the 225 men and 210 women registered at the end of October.

Demand for workers levelled off due to a number of major construction projects nearing completion simultaneously, according to J. A. Gunn-Fowle, Port Alberni NES manager.

Other projects are scheduled to begin soon, and are expected to take up the slack he added. Although the normal slowing down of the winter season was evident in most industries, there have been no significant layoffs.

Municipal winter works programs, organized early in the month, absorbed more than 30 men in November.

"Local wood products plants," said Mr. Gunn-Fowle, "operated to capacity and continued to have only a moderate turnover in labor."

Response Overwhelming

In Alberni Valley

Anti-Pollution Petition Popular

PORT ALBERNI — "Overwhelming" is the way George McKnight described response to the petition on air pollution he and nurseryman Colin Wilson are circulating in the Alberni Valley.

First copies of the petition were offered to businessmen, housewives, shoppers and workers Saturday in Port Alberni's downtown section by Mr. McKnight.

"Every single person of the cross-section I approached signed," Mr. McKnight said. "I filled a sheet and a half with signatures in a short time Saturday, and many people took copies to circulate among their friends and neighbors."

"Monday I was in Alberni, and although stores are mostly closed Monday, I found, if anything, an even more enthusiastic response in the Sister City. I don't doubt we'll have 5000 signatures in a short time, and possibly more."

Only one man declined to sign the petition when asked. "It's not that he's not against air pollution," McKnight explained, "but he told me was against petitions."

The originators of the petition plan to put the signatures and a brief before the provincial government before the next session of the legislature, asking for provincial control of air and water pollution.

Although Mr. McKnight is a candidate for the one-year term on the Port Alberni city council in Saturday's election, the petition he says, is strictly a non-political thing, and will be presented regardless of the outcome of the aldermanic race.

Polaris Missile Spotted by Gemini 7

Astronauts Drifting and Dreaming

SPACE CENTRE, Houston (UPI)—The Gemini 7 astronauts were drifting and dreaming in space Monday night at the end of a busy day that included the sighting of a submarine-launched Polaris missile. James Lovell was flying through the night in his underwear.

And Lt.-Col. Frank Borman, the Gemini 7 command pilot, had his 16-pound flight suit unzipped to keep cool. He reported that he and co-pilot Lovell had been warm "since we've been up here" on their two-week endurance voyage.

Before settling down for more sleep on their third night aloft the pilots did some exercise with a stretch cord, ate and rigged their ship for "hands-off" flying.

Earlier, project officials announced there was a 50-50 chance that Gemini 6 might be launched one day early—on Dec. 12—in its effort to overtake Gemini 7 and fly close formation with it. Work was well ahead of schedule at Cape Kennedy on the craft of Gemini 6 pilots Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford.

A decision was to be made on Tuesday as to whether the rendezvous attempt so important to Project Apollo which will land men on the moon could be moved up a day.

Lovell reported a minor accident as he and Borman were preparing to have their evening meal.

"I also had another catastrophe. As I was reaching back for one of my food bags,

I snagged my head on the overhead and tore off all my EGG (electroencephalogram) leads. We're in the process of pasting them back on now."

The sensors are used to measure brain activity during both work and sleep periods. For one thing, they tell how deeply the pilots are sleeping.

Gemini 7 soared into its 35th orbit at 8:50 p.m. EST. At that point, the astronauts were exercising and eating and getting settled down for another nice long sleep.

During the 34th orbit, Lovell gave ground control a report on food and water intake and sleep. At that point each had slept 12 hours since the take-off on Friday. Borman had

Moon Project

RUSSIA FAILS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today that its unmanned spaceship Luna VIII failed to make a soft landing on the moon.

Announcing the landing, the Soviet news agency Tass said the soft-landing system worked normally at all stages but the last.

Had it been successful, the feat would have put Russia well ahead of the United States in the race to put a man on the moon.

FURTHER STEP

In its English-language service, the Soviet news agency said the probe "reached the surface of the moon."

As a result of the probe Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing, the agency added.

Luna VIII was launched Friday.

The Jodrell Bank Observatory in England heard the signals from the space ship stop two seconds after it landed.

NEAR 'OCEAN'

Tass said the probe landed on the southern "shore" of the waterless Ocean of Storms.

Today's announcement said that as a result of the probe, Soviet scientists had made a further step toward achieving a soft landing.

Children Thrive On Own

VANCOUVER (CP)—A devout family of four children which disappeared from Montreal in August is living happily here and has no desire to go home. (See Page 11.)

They made this clear Monday after authorities informed them that their parents knew where they were.

UNDER SUPERVISION

The children, Maria Balent, 17, her brother Andre, 15, and sisters Milcha, 14, and Draga, 9, are living in a West End apartment under the supervision of the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

They disappeared from their home Aug. 30 and, in a manner they refuse to disclose, travelled to Vancouver.

"They promised us we wouldn't have to go back," the children said repeatedly to a reporter.

FEARED DEAD

Meanwhile, their anguished mother, Mrs. Vinko Balent, said in a telephone interview from Montreal she thought her children were dead.

The children have established a home here that revolves around Maria, a blonde girl with a serious face that shows the responsibility she has accepted. She works as a nurse's aid and sometimes as a cleaning woman.

ATTEND SCHOOL

The other children attend school and two of them have paper routes.

The reporter who interviewed them said: "They seem wiser than their years, and they are wary and protective of each other. But they are particularly well-mannered, polite youngsters, careful not to be rude to strangers."

Hospitals Too

Bennett Eyes More Aid For Scholars

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett will fly to Ottawa this week to ask for more money for universities and hospitals and to ask that mental health be brought under the federal-provincial hospital care agreement.

He said Monday he would leave for Ottawa Wednesday to attend the second annual meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers. He will be accompanied by deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

EARLY DECISION

The talks are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

The premier said he would especially ask for an immediate decision on federal government participation in the cost of higher education, because universities will soon have to be preparing their budgets for next year.

BLADEN REPORT

He said he would ask for implementation of the recommendations made in the Bladen Commission report on higher education.

The Bladen report recommended that the present per capita grants be raised to $5 for the year 1965-66 and be increased by $1 each year thereafter until an appropriate revision can be made, in consultation with the provinces.

CAPITAL GRANTS

It also recommended establishment of a capital grants fund into which annual payments would be made of $5 per head of the Canadian population and which would amount to about $100,000,000 a year.

Mr. Bennett said he would ask for "a more realistic approach" by Ottawa toward capital costs for hospitals.

The provincial government now pays about half of hospital capital costs while the federal government share is sometimes as low as 10 per cent, he said.

"And I will ask for the federal government to carry out its previous commitment to bring mental health under the hospital care agreement," the premier said.

Pope Paul

Holy Office Faces Big Changes

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul Monday ordered an unprecedented reorganization of the Holy Office—once the Inquisition—and the Vatican Ecumenical Council ended three years of work by approving a church policy statement on modern problems.

The Roman Catholic prelates gave a decisive vote of acceptance to the Schema (draft document) on modern problems, which includes condemnation of nuclear warfare and a proposal for further studies on contraception. (See Page 6.)

Pope Paul, consulted by telephone, told council presiding officers he approved the document although an unusually large number of prelates—including many Americans—voted against its blanket denunciation of nuclear weapons.

DOCUMENT APPROVED

A vote of 2,111 to 251 approved the document as a whole. In a separate vote on the nuclear warfare section, the vote was 1,710 to 483. No other major council document has drawn so much opposition in a decisive vote.

With the council virtually concluded, Pope Paul issued two major pontifical documents:

● An Apostolic constitution entitled Manifesto Eventus (Wonderous Event) set a five-month jubilee period, from Jan. 1 to May 28 (Pentecost

Sunday), to promote the council's decisions. The document outlined a jubilee program of religious services centred in individual dioceses, instead of at the Vatican, as in past jubilees.

● A motu proprio, or personal papal letter, gave a new statute for the Holy Office, changing its status and name, lifting most of its secrecy and ordering that defendants brought before it must be given the right of defence.

MOST WEeping

The changes for the Holy Office were the most sweeping for this congregation, one of 21 Vatican administrative agencies since it was formed out of the Inquisition in 1542 during the century of the Protestant reformation. Its very name—Holy Office—had aroused bitter memories among non-Roman Catholic Christians and even some Catholic theologians. Following council directives, Pope Paul changed it to "the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith." Until Monday it had been the "Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office."

African Terms Rejected

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson Monday rejected African terms for breaking white-ruled Rhodesia's rebellion and thus risked a mass walkout of the Commonwealth's 16 non-white countries.

The British leader did so convinced that Britain's preferred program of economic sanctions already has rendered Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's breakaway regime bankrupt. Wilson also was bulwarked by the fact Commonwealth countries who break with London stand to lose their trading preferences.

FRIDAY WARNING

The Organization of African Unity warned Friday its 36 members would break off diplomatic relations with London if Britain did not crush Smith's white-minority government by Dec. 15.

"The responsibility is ours," Wilson told The Daily Mirror, "and whatever the cost we shall not be pressured into starting a war which we believe to be wrong."

PINCERS HURT

There were signs, meanwhile, Britain's economic pincers were beginning to hurt. Rhodesia defaulted Monday on its interest payments of a four-per-cent loan stock, London stock dealers reacted quickly, lowering prices on Rhodesian bonds by about $14. Smith himself has said Rhodesia will no longer be able to honor international loans.

WARNING MADE

In Salisbury, Finance Minister J. J. Wrathall warned Rhodesians they can expect more tax increases and more unemployment as a result of the British sanctions.

Wilson held out an offer to Rhodesia's white minority of a negotiated settlement "without fear, without surrender, without recrimination."

OTHER WARNINGS

They have been reinforced by warnings of such countries as Uganda, Tanzania and others that they may quit the Commonwealth unless the British act as demanded. Nine OAU members also are Commonwealth members.

If the African countries were to fulfill their threats then Asian members of the Commonwealth very likely would do so too, in the British view.

Mitterrand

'Jilted' de Gaulle Remains Mum On Runoff Ballot

PARIS (CP)—President de Gaulle remained at his country estate in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises Monday, keeping a typical silence about his plans after Sunday's rebuff in the French presidential election.

If he does not withdraw his name from competition or resign from the presidency, he will have to defeat left-wing candidate Francois Mitterrand in a second ballot Dec. 19 to decide the presidency.

De Gaulle has until midnight Thursday night to pull out of the second ballot. There seems little possibility that he would withdraw, Gaullist sources said.

NEVER RECOVER

The moderate daily Le Figaro said Monday a withdrawal "would not only be wrong on the tactical level but would deal the institutions which de Gaulle himself established a blow from which they would never recover."

If he runs again, de Gaulle could be expected to harvest many of the votes which went to Senator Jean Lecanuet and the other non-left candidates in the first ballot. His victory was being regarded as assured.

Instead of the "frank and massive support" he had sought for another seven-year term as president, de Gaulle was rejected by a majority of the voters Sunday in favor of one of the other of his five opponents.

With only a few overseas votes still uncounted, de Gaulle had received less than 45 per cent of the nearly 25,000,000 votes cast—only 13 per cent more than Mitterrand, running with both socialist and Communist support.

Rubber Plantation Site of New Battle

SAIGON (AP)—New fighting was reported today between troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the Viet Cong near the Michelin Rubber Plantation, 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The fighting was an apparent recrimination of the weekend battle that U.S. officials said killed 231 Communists.

U.S. officials said in the weekend battle the 1st Division infantrymen suffered moderate casualties but some individual units were hit hard.

U.S. spokesmen said 231 Communists had been confirmed killed. Some American officers said they counted 50 enemy bodies in the dense jungle terrain where it often is difficult to see a man two yards away.

On the central coast, a U.S. marine amphibious operation north of Qui Nhon ended Monday with 26 Viet Cong confirmed killed, five captured and 12 suspects held, spokesman said. Marine casualties were termed light.

Ten More Days Left To Aid Most Needy

Morry, Denise, Danny, Philip and Steven donated $10; the Mystics Car Club gave $25 and an anonymous donor $50, to boost The Daily Colonist 500 Fund to its new total of $4,431.68.

If today were the last day of the drive, each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families would receive a cash Christmas present of $8.66. However, there are about 10 more days in which Morrys, Denises, Dannys, Philip and Stevens can contribute to the fund.

The days remaining are fewer than the days before Christmas because the fund is distributed early enough to get to the recipients before Christmas Day.

When mailing Christmas cards you may want to address one more envelope—to The Daily Colonist 500 Fund. Your enclosure, in whatever amount, will be acknowledged.

Surprising Setback

He Still Stands Tall Among Rivals

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

French voters deflated the image of President de Gaulle but he continues to stand tall among his rivals on the French political scene.

De Gaulle had expected—so confidently he hardly campaigned at all—to be returned to office by a substantial majority for a second seven-year term in Sunday's presidential election. But as things turned out, he had to settle for less than 45 per cent of the total vote.

The surprising setback brought smiles to opponents of his policy of seeking to establish France as a force independent of the United States and the Soviet Union.

The French president lost favor among his European allies as well as the United States for pursuing an independent foreign policy which ran against their policies as members of the North Atlantic Alliance and the European Economic Community.

Opponents of de Gaulle appeared happy that the president was lowered by the voters from his lofty pedestal and placed on the political plane of mortals.

As de Gaulle was being cut to size, a new figure emerged in Francois Mitterrand, the only candidate of the left and a man
